The Raised Sub Yields Two Victims

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Rescuers decompressing two men in a chamber of a midget submarine that was trapped underwater for 31 hours said today the men were dead.

Rear Adm. John Maurer, commander of the Key West Navy base, said "We have received word from the Sea Diver (the minisub's mother ship) that the two men in the rear compartment are in fact dead."

The two men, Clayton Link, 31, son of the submarine's inventor, Edwin Link, and Albert Stover, 51, a veteran diver and submarine pilot, had been unconscious since 2:30 a.m. EDT Monday and breathing sounds had not been heard from the chamber since 8 a.m. that day.

A Navy spokesman said the 21-foot Johnson-Sea Link minisub was being brought to Key West by the Sea Diver and that the hatch on the sub's rear compartment had not yet been opened. The spokesman said he did not know how it was determined that the men were dead.

"I assume the doctors had declared them dead," the spokesman added.

Maurer received word that the men were dead about 10:25 a.m. EDT, some 15 hours after the submarine was freed from the wreck of a destroyer that trapped it in 351 feet of water. The sub became ensnared 15 miles southeast of Key West Sunday and was trapped for 48 hours.

Two men in the forward chamber of the sub were pronounced "100 per cent fit" shortly after the craft was freed. They were Robert Meek, 27, and Archibald "Jock" Menzies, 30.

Link and Stover did not respond to radio calls after 2:30 a.m. Monday and breathing sounds in the chamber were last heard about six hours later, when it was feared carbon dioxide had reached toxic levels.

Clayton Link is the son of millionaire inventor Edwin A. Link, 69, who is aboard Sea Diver. Menzies, of Vero Beach, Fla., served as the minisub's pilot commander. Stover is a submarine pilot and veteran diver from Juno Beach, Fla., and Meek is a marine biologist from Santa Barbara, Calif.

High air pressure and nitrogen which forms in the blood of a diver prevented rescuers from opening the rear chamber until decompression was complete about 6 a.m. EDT. The nitrogen is purged through slow decompression.

Sprawled on the deck of the six-foot chamber were Link, 31, the son of the research sub's designer, millionaire inventor Edwin Link; and Stover, 31, a veteran Navy submariner.

The 21-foot submarine was being decompressed aboard its mother ship, the Sea Diver, Link's father, who revolutionized aviation with a simulated flight trainer that bears his name, and wife, Maurine, waited helplessly only inches away from the young explorer.

"We've not had any movement or signs of life from the two men in the rear chamber," Navy spokesman said late Monday. "We are treating it as if both are alive. It's a slow process."

The Sea Link was snared Sunday morning in cables on a scuttled World War II destroyer, the Fred T. Berry, at a depth of 351 feet.

The minisub was under contract to the Smithsonian Institution to study marine life around the Berry, scuttled to create an artifical reef.

After five unsuccessful attempts to free the Sea Link, rescuers on the Tringa ripped away the cables which trapped the Sea Link. A giant grappling hook was guided into position by an underwater television camera controlled from the commercial research ship A.B. Wood.

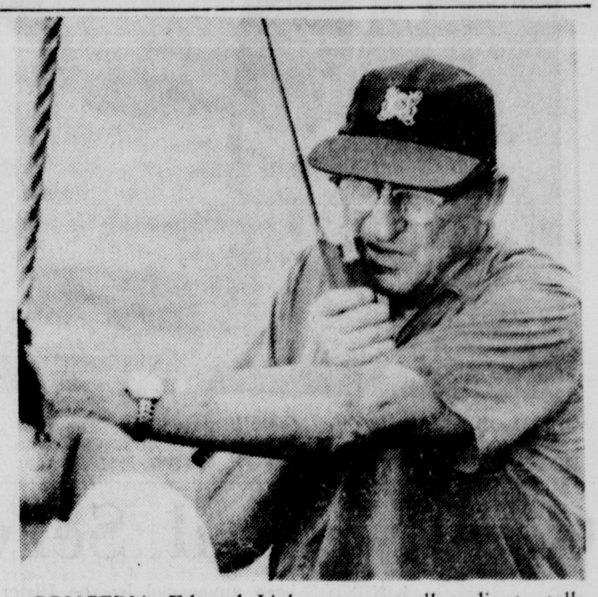

Once freed, the Sea Link popped to the surface on its own buoyancy tanks.

Earlier attempts at rescue by divers and other minisubs had been foiled by strong underwater currents.

While Link's father and wife waited aboard the Sea Diver, the wives of Meek and Menzies arrived from California and flew by helicopter to the Tringa for a reunion with their husbands.

Observers aboard the Sea Diver said the senior Link, who built the minisub in his backyard, paced the deck and relayed instructions to other rescuers during the efforts to raise the Sea Link.

"He's a tough old man," an observer said.

Summit Agreement on Four Points

INTERNATIONAL HUMOR—President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev share a laugh after the toasts at a White House State Dinner in Brezhnev's honor. (UPI Telephoto)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's second Soviet summit yields its first fruit today in the signing of four agreements for cooperation in the fields of oceanography, transportation, cultural exchanges and agriculture.

Like other pacts signed last year in Moscow, they are aimed at finding common ground for cooperation between the two traditional rivals and nudging the superpowers away from their quarter century-old Cold War confrontation.

The accords would provide for joint exploration and exchange of information in oceanic research, exchange of statistics on crops and joint agricultural research, joint development of urban auto and rail transportation systems, and expansion of the current two-year cultural exchange program.

The Senate Monday attempted to improve the atmosphere for the summit talks by suspending for a week its hearings into the Watergate affair that have embarrassed Nixon's administration. House leaders of a discussion of the possibility of impeaching the President also announced they were delaying their inquiries.

Delighted by the opportunity to shift the focus of public attention away from Watergate, Nixon gave an effusive welcome to Soviet Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev at the opening of the week-long summit Monday at the White House.

The colorful welcoming ceremony and first working session were followed Monday night by a glittering black tie dinner that saw the executive mansion bedecked with the Stars and Stripes of the United States and the hammer and sickle of the Soviet Union. Nixon showered Brezhnev with gifts, including a dark blue Lincoln Continental sedan and a custom-made rifle.

It was the first visit to the United States for the stocky Soviet leader, who stood half-a-head shorter than his host at the welcoming rites, but he responded like an American politician, interrupting the proceedings three times to shake hands among the carefully screened crowd of 3,000 on hand for the welcome.

Security was so tight that all traffic was barred from a two-block area around the White House.

"We have recognized that despite the differences in our ideology and our social systems, we can develop normal relations," Nixon told his dinner guests, who included several prominent Jews.

"Shall the world's two strongest nations constantly confront one another in areas which might lead to war or shall we work together for peace? The world watches and listens this week to see what our answer to that question is."

Brezhnev pledged his nation to helping "overcome the inertia of the Cold War and its after-effects" both in international affairs and "in the minds of men."

"The peoples are expecting a great deal from our new meeting and I believe it is our duty to live up to those expectations," he said.

"I would venture . . . to express the hope and even the confidence that our present meeting will play an important role in further strengthening mutually advantageous cooperation between our countries in improving the international climate as a whole."

And in remarks that could have been addressed to allies of both countries fearful they will be forgotten in the rush toward better relations between the superpowers, Brezhnev said it should be "absolutely clear to anyone who is at least slightly familiar with the real course of events" that improvement in Soviet-American relations in no way prejudices the interests of third countries.

Nixon and Brezhnev, his dark suit bedecked with two Soviet medals, conferred for almost four hours in their initial session Monday. The American side termed the talks "very good and very relaxed" and the Soviets called them a "good, businesslike beginning."

The first session was said by White House spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler to be mainly philosophical in tone. Bargaining sessions over the major issues of trade and nuclear disarmament are expected later this week.

Following another meeting this afternoon at the White House, the two leaders will fly by helicopter Wednesday to Camp David, the presidential mountain retreat that was the site of the 1959 summit by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Dwight D. Eisenhower, for an overnight stay.

Both Brezhnev and Nixon are hopeful of convincing Congress to grant most-favored nation status to the Soviet Union, a move that would put Russia on the same footing as virtually all other U.S. trading partners and an essential step in expanding trade between the two nations.

Quizzers Bow for Brezhnev

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate Committee, fearing its televised probe of the scandal may endanger the U.S.-Soviet summit, has postponed its public hearings until next week.

Special prosecutor Archibald Cox also told reporters he was studying whether it would be legally possible to subpoena the President to appear before the Watergate grand jury. There was a "possibility" Nixon would be subpoenaed, Cox said.

"Whether it would be the best way to pursue the investigation and whether we would have any legal grounds are both open questions," he said.

Cox said he also was studying, together with "a whole host of legal questions," whether it would be possible to indict a President in advance of impeachment proceedings, which are initiated by the House.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield took the initiative Monday in persuading the Senate panel to put off until next Tuesday the hearings it had planned to call back into session today.

White House log shows only one substantive meeting between President Nixon and John Dean in 1972 and Lt. William Calley's attorneys bring Watergate in their appeal. Stories on page 3.

The committee had planned to call as a witness today John W. Dean III, the White House counsel Nixon fired in April. Dean is expected to implicate high former administration aides in the bugging of Democratic national headquarters and the subsequent cover-up. He also reportedly is prepared to testify he assumed that Nixon knew of the cover-up within weeks of the June 17, 1972, break-in.

(The New York Times and syndicated columnist Jack Anderson reported today that Dean borrowed $4,000 from 1972 Republican campaign funds to finance his wedding and honeymoon last October. The Times said he paid back the money. The Times also said Dean put $14,000 from campaign funds into a special trust account not in his own name. That money reportedly was left over from a $22,000 fund for buying newspaper advertising expressing support for President Nixon's Indochina War policies.)

In other Watergate developments:

—The White House denied a Washington Post report that quoted White House and other government sources that Nixon was prepared to place the blame for Watergate on his former chief advisors, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said "the anonymous White House sources quoted in (the) Washington Post do not have access to the facts and do not speak authoritatively either for the President or members of the White House staff working on Watergate matters."

—Cox appointed Henry S. Ruth Jr., 42, director of the Mayor's Criminal Justice Coordinating Council of New York City, his deputy special prosecutor.

—Ervin said that White House counsel Leonard Garment had assured his committee that the doctrines of executive privilege and the lawyer-client relationship would not be involved in Dean's testimony. Sam Dash, the committee's chief counsel, said this meant that Dean "can testify about any conversation he had with the President or anybody else."

Saugerties School Board Resubmits Same Budget

SAUGERTIES

The Saugerties School Board voted Monday night to resubmit without changes the $6.3 million school budget turned down by district voters last week.

Voters on June 13 defeated the budget proposition by a narrow margin 1,137 to 1,019. Three separate propositions, two of which would have added teaching positions to the staff and another which would have extended district limits for busing to private schools, also were defeated.

Robert Francello, board president, said that the narrow margin of defeat, plus appeals from administrators against any further cuts in the "bare bones" budget, were responsible for the board's decision to resubmit the same budget again. The three separate propositions, all defeated by substantial margins, will not be resubmitted.

Saugerties Village Board votes to close paper company. Story on page 13.

"If we cut the budget any more," Francello said, "we would be doing a tremendous disservice to the children."

Francello said he felt the extraordinary amount of attention given to the school board election, in which nine candidates vied for three vacancies on the Board of Education, might have contributed to the defeat of the budget by draining off the energies of persons who otherwise might have worked to support the budget. With the election out of the way these persons can now concentrate their energies on the budget, he said.

The vote will be held sometime within the next four weeks, Francello said. At least three weeks must pass after legal notice is given before a vote can be held.

Everett Vail appeared at the meeting to complain about the amount of time spent by elementary teacners in monthly meetings to develop the elementary curriculum, saying that the monthly half-day meetings were consuming too much time. The board adopted the Rev. John Needham's resolution that the elementary Curriculum Committee be dissolved and its work turned over to the Superintendent's Committee.

Acting on a recommendation of the Ulster County Health Department, the board voted to install a chlorinator for treating waste matter at the Riccardi Elementary School, and also voted approval of a new contract with the district's custodial help.

May Evans, Director of Pupil Personnel Services, submitted her retirement, effective at the end of the current school year on June 30. Francello praised her work during the past 30 years in the district and she was given a standing ovation by the 150 persons present at the meeting.

Reapportionment Referendum

Voter Turnout Light

KINGSTON

Voting proceeded at a crawl today as city residents determine the fate of a Democratic-proposed reapportionment plan that would eliminate two aldermen and reduce the number of wards in the city from 13 to 11.

Less than one-half of one per cent of the city's 13,691 eligible voters had cast their ballots by noontime today. The exceptionally light turnout during the morning hours was not unexpected, however, with poll watchers predicting a steadier stream of voters during the evening hours.

The polls opened at 6 a. m.; they'll close at 9 p. m. Balloting booths are set up in each of the city's 26 voting districts.

Light voter turnout was reported at each polling place surveyed. For instance, the heavily Republican First Ward-First District reported only 20 of the 865 registered voters had cast ballots by late morning. Republicans are counting on a heavy voter turnout today to defeat the Democrats' redistricting plan.

The heaviest turnout of voters this morning was reported at the Municipal Auditorium (13th Ward, District 2). Some 50 voters out of an estimated 600 registered had cast their ballots by noontime.

Voters are asked to vote "yes" or "no" on the 11-Ward plan proposed by the Democrats and adopted by the Common Council. Approval would make the new plan official; a defeat would retain the existing 13-Ward set-up, at least for the time being.

The redistricting plan would have its greatest effects on the city's downtown wards. Accordingly, voter turnout was heavier downtown than elsewhere in the city this morning, but only by a slight margin.

Former Clerk Arrested Again

KINGSTON — A 30-year-old former clerk in the Kingston City treasurer's office, arrested June 6 and charged with third degree grand larceny in connection with missing funds from taxpayers' accounts, was arrested again Sunday morning and charged with issuing a bad check on a warrant from the Dutchess county Sheriff's Department.

Garry Stafford of 180 Delaware Avenue appeared before Town of Pleasant Valley Justice Thomas Vasti Monday night. His case was adjourned until June 27. He remains free on $250 bail. Stafford has already posted $1,000 bail with Kingston City Court on the grand larceny charge.

Stafford was arrested Sunday morning at his home by Detectives of the Kingston Police Department. He was arraigned before City Court Judge Hubert A. Richter.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's Department revealed that Stafford was first arrested Feb. 4, 1971 and charged with issuing approximately 20 bad checks totaling $822.16. Most of those checks, said police, were issued in 1970.

Stafford was hired by the City of Kingston as a clerk in the treasurer's office in October, 1972.

After his initial arrest on the bad check charges, Stafford pleaded guilty and was given a conditional discharge: one of the conditions being that he make restitution in the amount of $20 a week until all the checks were covered.

Detective Emil Fikar of the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department said, however, that Stafford made his last restitution payment "about a year-and-a-half ago," leaving the bulk of the checks still unpaid for. Fikar said police haven't heard from the man since.

Fikar said that when police learned of Stafford's arrest June 6 in Kingston, an arrest warrant was signed out in Dutchess County for the bad check charge.

Police said the latest charge against Stafford alleges that he issued a bad check at the A-Mart store in Poughkeepsie on Nov. 4, 1970 totaling $25.

Police said that most of the "bad checks" Stafford is alleged to have cashed amounted to between $20 and $50 each. Complaints were filed by a Grand Union store and a Howard Johnson's Restaurant, among others, in the Poughkeepsie area. Most of the checks, said police, were cashed in 1970; the earliest was cashed in January, 1970.

Stafford is also accused in the theft of between $250 and $1,500 from the city treasurer's office. The grand larceny charge is still pending in court.

County Civil Service Slates Exams

KINGSTON — Two open competitive examinations, one for an account clerk and the other for an account clerk-typist have been announced by the Ulster County Civil Service Commission.

The last date for filing applications is July 6 and the examinations will be given Aug. 11.

Applications may be secured from the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, UPO Box 172, County Office Building, Kingston.

At present two vacancies exist for an account clerk at Ulster County Community College, two in the Treasurer's Department, one at the Board of Cooperative Educational Services and one anticipated in the Marlboro School District. Two vacancies also exist in the Social Services Department.

Starting salaries are $4,423 in the county departments and salaries in the Ulster County School Districts vary with location.

At present two vacancies exist for an account clerk-typist in the Onteora School District and one in the Saugerties School District.

The written test is designed for knowledge, skills and abilities in clerical aptitude, arithmetic and understanding and interpreting written material.

In addition to written test, candidates must also qualify on performance in typing, the test for which will be administered after the eligible list is established.

White House Log Shows One Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, according to a White House log, had only one substantive meeting with his counsel, John W. Dean III, in 1972. That was on Sept 15, the day indictments were returned against seven men in the Watergate break-in.

Between Feb. 27 and April 22 of this year, as the Watergate scandal was breaking, they met or talked by telephone 37 times.

The Associated Press has obtained a copy of the White House log that shows seven meetings Dean attended in 1972, all but one of them of a ceremonial or informal nature. They include the signing of Nixon's income-tax return, a photographic session and a meeting with the two men's wives aboard the presidential jet.

No reason was listed for any of the meetings this year, except a worship service Dean attended in January.

Published reports have said Dean recounted the Sept. 15, 1972, meeting to investigators as a session between himself, the President and chief of staff H. R. Haldeman. Nixon congratulated Dean, the counsel said, in what Dean interpreted as praise for his successful efforts to prevent anyone higher than E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy from being indicted.

The content of the discussions was not disclosed in the log, but sources close to the Watergate investigation said presidential counsel Leonard Garment has written a separate "explanation" of the meetings and turned it over to the Senate Watergate committee.

That explanation, investigators believe, will be "substantially if not completely different" from the one Dean is expected to give when he appears before the panel's televised hearings next week.

Calley Attorneys Cite Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys attempting to overturn the conviction of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. have asked a military court to probe the role the White House played in investigating the My Lai massacre.

The attorneys filed a motion Monday with the U.S. Court of Military Appeals asking it to order the production of interviews, wiretaps, logs and other records collected by two former White House aides who have been mentioned in the Watergate case

The lawyers cited published reports that former New York policeman John J. Caulfield and an associate, Anthony F. Ulasewicz, interviewed My Lai participants on behalf of the White House.

Caulfield and Ulasewicz worked on undercover projects for the White House for three years beginning the spring of 1969, principally under the supervision of John D. Ehrlichman, one of President Nixon's chief aides.

The two investigators told the Senate Watergate Committee they sought to ensure the silence of James W. McCord, one of the seven men convicted of burglarizing Democratic national headquarters.

Capt. J. Houston Gordon, Calley's principal military lawyer, said the attorneys had asked the court to obtain the records to learn "everything the White House staff did that involved My Lai."

Damaged Convoy Reaches Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A 13-ship convoy carrying vital supplies up the Mekong River arrived safely in Phnom Penh late Monday but Communist gunfire that raked escort boats killed a Cambodian soldier and wounded two others.

Naval sources said rebel gunners firing from the shore of the Mekong inflicted the casualtes despite heavy U.S. air cover protecting the convoy on its hazardous 84-mile dash up the river from the South Vietnamese border.

The convoy itself, consisting of eight tankers, three cargo ships and two barges, was only slightly damaged by Communist fire on the day-long trip.

The stern superstructure of one tanker, the Mekong Trader, was hit by rebel rocket fire and two cargo ships—the Endurance and the Nguon Kim—were hit by machine-gun fire, the sources said. A tugboat pulling an ammunition barge was also hit, they said, but none of the ships was badly damaged.

Supply convoys over the past four months have encountered heavy Communist resistance on their runs up the river, the only waterway supply route leading into the capital.

The only other supply lines into into Phnom Penh are four roadways which are sporadically cut off by rebel troops.

In downtown Phnom Penh Monday night, police said nine persons were wounded when a hand grenade exploded near the American Embassy. No one was captured in the incident.

The Cambodian high command said a Communist commander named Chan Ratana defected to the government side in the provincial capital of Kompong Speu on Highway 4.

The command said Ratana, whose rank was not disclosed, had been instrumental in the recent Communist offensive along the highway, one of the supply routes leading into the capital.

Warning From Thieu in Saigon Talk

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today warned the world not to be lulled by Communist appeals for peace and charged "the Communist scheme is still to take over South Vietnam by force."

Speaking at annual Armed Forces Day festivities, Thieu told an estimated 50,000 onlookers in downtown Saigon: "In the past 18 years it was not because of their peace and good will and national love that the Communists spoke of stopping the fighting. And they will never give up their scheme to reinvade our South."

At the end of his nine-minute speech, dozens of South Vietnamese helicopters, cargo planes and fighter-bombers swept over the city. The flyover was followed by a parade featuring about 20,000 members of the armed forces who marched past Thieu, cabinet officials and foreign diplomats on the reviewing stand.

It was a perfect day for the parade, which featured a good deal of the $5 billion in U.S. military equipment owned by South Vietnam. Temperatures were mild and, although it is the monsoon season in South Vietnam, the skies were cloudless.

Because of the holiday there was no morning military news briefing on Communist cease-fire violations but Thieu indicated there had been no real let-up in the fighting.

"The Communist scheme is still to take over South Vietnam by force," he said. "Last June 13 the cease-fire was once again pledged by the Communists but in past days they have still continued to seriously violate it. This is enough to confirm that the communists' intention is not to restore peace by a temperate solution."

He praised the military for recapturing most of the territory taken by the Communists in the spring offensive in 1972.

"Exactly one year ago, also on Armed Forces Day, I ordered you to reoccupy the lost territory," Thieu recalled. "Exactly three months later you defeated the Communist invading troops on all the main fronts and the important territories were retaken."

The Communists, however, still control much of northernmost Quang Tri Province just below the former Demilitarized Zone and a vast area around Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

Antique Gun Thieves Sought

EAST GREENBUSH, N.Y. (AP) — State police sought three men today who made off with $2,500 in cash and jewels as well as a collection of 150 antique guns.

The trio wore stockings over their heads and brandished a pistol when they invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Jordan in North Greenbush Sunday, police said. The three men taped the Jordan's ankles together and handcuffed their hands behind their backs while they loaded up the family car with their bounty and escaped, authorities said.

Mrs. Jordan freed herself 30 minutes later and crossed the street, still handcuffed, to call police.

Helicopters and patrol cars searched the Rensselaer County area Monday, state police reported.

The Press Corps, Soviet Leaders: Times Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legend has it that when Nikita Khrushchev visited the Iowa spread of Roswell Garst, the Coon Rapid farmer became so angry at the swarming hordes of reporters that he kicked one offending newsmen in the shins.

That is not likely to happen this week when Leonid Brezhnev, Khrushchev's successor as general secretary of the Soviet Union's Communist Party is President Nixon's guest in the United States. This time, if all goes according to plan, newsmen will not get close to Brezhnev at all.

The striking difference between the two tours stems from the striking differences between the two men, their itineraries and the U.S. of then and now.

Khrushchev was an unpredicticable, moody man, easily offended and always ready to offend. Brezhnev, labeled for years as a technocrat, is a disciplined politician.

Khrushchev was "good copy" whatever he said or did and seemed to enjoy it. Brezhnev, it appears, has no such ambitions, although American Kremlinologists are not so sure after his recent visit to West Germany where he was photographed embracing Chancellor Willy Brandt in a classic Russian bear-hug.

The United States in 1959 was a country with little on its mind other than the upcoming visit of the world's top communist. The United States Brezhnev is visiting is preoccupied with Watergate, inflation and a host of trade and monetary questions.

When Khrushchev came, the visit was front-page news well before his arrival. Now, much to the annoyance of communist diplomats here, virtually nothing is in the papers. When a story does appear, the headline is more likely to read that Brezhnev "will not exploit Watergate," as it did recently on the front page of The Washington Post.

Khrushchev spent 12 days visiting Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, the Garst farm, Pittsburgh and Camp David. Brezhnev will see only Washington and the two closely-guarded presidential retreats at Camp David and San Clemente during his 10 day stay.

The 1959 visit was a hectic affair which included two press conferences, one television appearance and a number of speeches. It kept the Soviet leader in constant, often bodily, contact with thousands of Americans.

There were a number of unrehearsed diplomatic gaucheries such as the refusal, for security reasons, of his request to visit Disneyland. Khrushchev threatened to go home, complained about cold war insults and harangued about the superiority of the Communist system.

Brezhnev plans no press conferences, though one televised speech is on the schedule. Administration Kremlin watchers expect him to stick to his itinerary, abide by security restrictions and, as one Soviet specialist put it, "when the program calls for rest, you can be sure that he goes to bed."

U.S. Joins Crowd In Price Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 60-day price freeze and other economic actions introduced by President Nixon have put the United States beside dozens of other countries engaging in a food price scramble.

In a report issued today, the Agriculture Department said recent actions by other countries to increase food supplies and cool prices have included new laws, tariff inducements and rationing exports.

The report was published by the Foreign Agricultural Service and was prepared before the economic actions were announced last week by Nixon. Those actions include the price freeze and a possibility that U.S. farm exports might be controlled to protect domestic food supplies.

The report said:

— The New Zealand government is subsidizing sheep and lamb production in an effort to slow down price increases to consumers. More imported pork is being sought, and the government has suspended a 20 per cent tariff on Canadian pork.

— Japan has increased its beef import quota for the second half of the fiscal year to 154 million pounds from 50 million a year ago.

— Brazil has reduced a tax charged to beef packing plants for domestic consumption but set a tax of nine cents per pound on beef for export.

— Canada has removed all duties on imports of beef, veal and pork.

— Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Panama and El Salvador have temporarily suspended beef exports.

"Trade reports also indicate that the European Economic Community (Common Market) will continue until July 1 and possibly mid-September their 50 per cent reduction of import duties on live cattle and beef," the report said.

World meat supplies have been drained sharply by rising demand in affluent countries. The Nixon administration, in an attempt to cool off food prices, says larger crops of corn and soybeans are needed this year so that livestock feeders will turn out more meat.

The report of the Agriculture Department showed that the food crunch overseas has mainly involved meat. Even some of the traditionally self-sufficient countries and big suppliers have been affected.

"Denmark recently imported 11,000 pounds of Australian beef — the first fresh beef to enter Denmark in many years, except for small quantities from Scandinavia," the report said.

Spain wanted to buy up 10 million pounds of meat from New Zealand but was turned down because supplies were already committed, the report said.

THE LAST DAY — Monday marked the last day of classes this year — and probably for years to come — at the St. Catherine Laboure school in Lake Katrine. Financial difficulties forced the Archdiocese of New York to announce, last April, the school's closing. The annual field day activities included contests, games, races and a hot dog luncheon for vacation-bound students — and, no doubt, a tinge of sadness for staff personnel and parents. Participants included (L-R) Jane Pottengill, Sister Margaret Theresa, students Stephanie Perry and Michael Yerry and Helen Callahan. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Revenue Sharing Funds To Aid Jail Renovation

KINGSTON — The renovation of the Wall Street Jail and the construction of a water standpipe and pumphouse at the Golden Hill complex will be partly financed with federal revenue sharing funds, it was announced today be Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago.

A total of $206,000 has been allocated for the standpipe and pumphouse building at the site of the county's new jail and infirmary on Golden Hill. Total cost of the project is $290,000.

Anthony Constanzi Corp., general contractors and M. Sher and Son electrical, heating and ventilating contractors, are already at work on the project.

Savago said that $553,130 in revenue sharing funds has been allocated for the Wall Street Jail and Court House renovation. Total cost of that project is unknown at present and the project must still be pu tout for bid.

The decision to use federal revenue sharing funds was a joint one with both the county Finance Committee and the County Buildings Committee conferring in the matter.

The revenue sharing funds intended for the two projects is the amount the county is receiving for the period of Jan. 1 to June 30 of this year.

Aware of the critical need for additional office space in the County Office Building, the building committee has proposed a plan in which the old County Jail on Wall Street and part of the Court House would be renovated and converted to office use.

Both the Finance Committee and the Building Committee felt that use of federal revenue sharing funds for these projects would not commit the county to other new programs which they said could become a burden on the taxpayer if the revenue sharing funds are curtailed in the future.

Crowded conditions at the Court House on Wall Street and the building of a new jail on Golden Hill prompted the plan to renovate the old Court House-Jail in uptown Kingston.

According to Robert H. Kuhlmann, (R-Dist. 10), chairman of the Building Committee, the old jail will be converted to a court complex and will house all courts except Surrogate Court because that court needs the accessibility of records in the County Office Building where it is presently located.

The complex would also accommodate the district attorney's office, probation office, Family Court and judge's chambers.

The county's architect Albert Milliken who recommended the renovation said it appears the old jail could fairly easily be gutted to provide the office and storage space.

The jail is structurally as good if not better than a new building, Kuhlmann said.

Youth Council For Ellenville

ELLENVILLE — The Ellenville Village Board approved the formation of a Youth Commission at its Monday night meeting, but indicated that assitance would be needed from the Town of Wawarsing and the school district as well.

Because of Department of Audit and Control regulations, municipalities are not allowed to fund private organizations; that was the response the Ellenville-Napanoch Babe Ruth Baseball League received when it asked for financial support Monday.

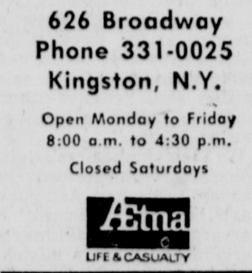

As an alternative, trustee Sol Sandler recommended that the village board form a Youth Commission that would create and support a full range of recreational activities for the area's youth. His proposal was approved unanimously.

The village board, however, envisions a three-pronged effort to establish the recreation commission. Village officials will contact representatives of the town board and the Ellenville Board of Education to solicit their assistance in setting up the commission. They hope to have some of their efforts realized in time to establish recreational programs for this summer.

In other matters, village officials said they would attend Thursday's meeting of the Route 209 Association at the Granit Hotel in Accord. The association is urging immediate state action on construction of a new Route 209, eliminating the existing route that they claim is hazardous and frequently congested. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

The village board received nine bids for some 30 items of fire-fighting equipment, and two bids for a heavy duty dump truck. All were tabled for further study.

Mayor Robert Dowling reported on the recent New York State Conference of Mayors that he attended at Grossinger's last week. Representatives from throughout the state, he said, urged continuation of the village court system; asked the state to stop mandating how municipalities use their revenue sharing funds; and suggested reimbursements to communities for public housing exemptions.

Spiraling House Costs

Time was when it was the dream of most American families to own their homes. Today the dream, for all too many, is turning into a nightmare.

Recent surveys show that home costs have almost doubled in the last 20 years—the exact rise is given as 91.7 per cent. This inflationary hike is exceeded only by the 145 per cent increase in services.

For speculators the zooming prices have been great news but for young families they have created critical problems for which there is no apparent answer.

Examples cited by the Bureau of Labor Statistics dramatically reveal what has happened to the housing market.

Many persons remember Levittown, the postwar project that was going to revoluntionize the housing industry through mass production that created planned miniature cities. When the first project was completed in Long Island in 1948, houses were available for approximately $6,900. Today many of those homes are selling for as high as $40,000, nearly six times the original price and more than three times the national rate of housing inflation.

The increase hasn't been that sharp in other parts of the country but still it has been huge enough to make authorities ponder the solution. Beyond the normal inflation spiral is the old story of supply and demand.

The National Association of Home Builders explains that despite record-breaking years the last two years in which four million housing starts were made, the masses of children born in the early post-war years have entered the house-hunting phase. And from 1960 to 1970 there was a 37 per cent increase in the formation of households. That meant a decrease in the houses for sale with fierce competition resulting for the available homes.

Thus in New York State homes that formerly were in the $40,000 range are priced today at $70,000. In Miami, an executive found a house that suited him. It was priced at $54,000 but he didn't have time to place a deposit on it. Next morning the price was $56,000.

Stories like that are frightening and the prospects are not bright for the foreseeable future. Land costs are skyrocketing, mortgage rates are high and construction wages are up.

The Nixon administration has just announced a new phase of economic controls. And certainly the nation is crying for a check in inflation. But whether this can control the competitive bidding for existing homes, which sends prices soaring, remains to be seen.

Unwanted Pets

Many large dogs, bought for protection, have been abandoned since their upkeep has become a burden in the present high prices of food. Many animals are also abandoned at the end of the school year by college students returning home for the summer. And many are left at the end of the summer by families who had taken them on vacations for their children to play with and have no place for them at home.

Americans who abandon pets—dogs, cats, puppies and kittens—are making difficult the lives of animal welfare and humane society officials across the country. For between starvation, accidents with automobiles and destruction by animal control authorities, the life expectancy of a stray pet is only about one year. And only about 10 per cent of strays in animal rescue centers are ever placed in private homes.

Last year, around 13 million of the nation's total of about 90 million pet animals were destroyed. The cost reached $100 million.

Authorities suggest renewed efforts to educate the public on their responsibilities toward pets, stricter enforcement of existing law, including the definition of "purposeful abandonment" of a pet as a serious criminal offense. They also insist on the licensing of all dogs and cats and issuing fines for violations. They strongly advocate a nationwide program of free or low-cost spay and neuter clinics. But veterinarians say if they start spaying right now, they'll never catch up, because one female dog can give birth to two litters a year and one feline can produce four each year.

It's a human problem, one that owners alone can solve by not abandoning the pets which have protected them or given them pleasure.

Campaign Contributors Fared Well

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Sources close to President Nixon's fund-raising effort last year say government favors were exchanged for campaign contributions. A donation over $100,000, they say, would entitle a contributor to a quid pro quo.

We have turned our information over to Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, whose consumer subcommittee has started a quiet investigation into the impact of secret campaign deals upon the consumer.

Throughout the government alphabet — from CAB to SEC — contributors received economic benefits, which have helped to fuel inflation and to weaken the dollar.

From our files, here are highlights we have supplied to the Senate:

Dairy Dollars

— President Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach, was turned down by the milk industry when he couldn't promise a quid pro quo in return for campaign cash.

The dairymen made an end run around him to the White House, where a commitment was made to raise money for the Nixon campaign. The day after the first big contribution was delivered, dairy price supports were increased over the objection of the Agriculture Department. One source told us Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz got his instructions at a meeting right in the President's oval office.

The increased supports brought the dairy farmers an extra estimated $500 million from the taxpayers. Dairy tycoon William Powell, in a personal letter explaining the deal, noted: "Whether we like it or not, this is the way the system works."

Hamburger Handout

— McDonald's hamburger king Arthur Kroc donated a whopping $225,000 to re-elect President Nixon. This was 225 times more than the $1,000 Kroc had contributed to Nixon's 1968 campaign. The Price Commission, just before the election, allowed Kroc a 10 per cent increase in the price of his cheeseburgers. The commission explained it had okayed the hike because Kroc was adding more cheese on his burgers.

— Carpet manufacturers donated nearly $200,000 that we can trace to Nixon. One major contributor, Coronet Industries president Martin Bud Seretean, gave $94,000 in 30 separate donations in mid-August.

The money poured into Republican coffers at the same time the carpet lobby was desperately trying to postpone the enforcement of new flammability regulations. Finance Committee Chairman Maurice Stans arranged a White House meeting for the carpet men. Result: Enforcement was delayed.

'In-house Union'

— Of all the unions, the Teamsters raised the most money for the Nixon campaign. They got favored treatment, according to insiders, from the Cost of Living Council. "The Teamsters are considered the in-house union here," a council lawyer told us. The Teamsters' key man is Don Cagle, a union representative on the wage stabilization appeals panel. "Cagle's opinions always get prompt attention," said our source.

Similarly, the money poured in from bankers, brokers, insurance tycoons, real estate operations and oilmen who responded to Maurice Stans' appeal that rich Republicans donate one per cent of their gross income.

What the senators want to know is whether the housewives are now paying back the big contributors tenfold in the form of higher prices.

CAPTIVE AUDIENCE: Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar traveled to his native California last month to speak before a luncheon crowd of transportation experts and found himself addressing an unusually enthusiastic audience.

What Brinegar didn't know was that many of his adoring listeners were federal employes who, in effect, were paid to attend with government funds. Here's how it worked:

When it was learned the secretary would make an appearance at the Los Angeles luncheon, local Federal Aviation Administration officials, who come under Department of Transportation jurisdiction, apparently decided it would be good politics for the FAA to show up in force.

They, therefore, arranged for 85 of their employes to attend the affair. Two buses were rented, at a cost of $50 each, to ferry the bureaucrats to the Los Angeles Convention Center, where Brinegar was to speak.

One of the major problems the FAA officials faced, however, was the $10 price of the tickets. So they declared Brinegar's speech "an official government activity" and quietly returned to each participating employe eight dollars of the "registration fee."

Final cost to the taxpayers: nearly $800 for tickets and buses, not counting the hundreds of man-hours lost while the FAA bureaucrats paid court to their boss.

A spokesman for the FAA's Western Region office insisted that the agency's employes did not attend the luncheon simply to hear Brinegar but to get a "total transportation perspective."

Reflections on the News

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Concerning the day's news, a few observations.

1) Henry Kissinger, on returning recently from Paris after the week when everybody was firing at him for consenting to protect the security of his office, remarked to a friend that the only person in Paris who was nice to him was Le Duc Tho. It is an extension of this irony that the firmest support Richard Nixon has recently gotten has been from Leonid Brezhnev.

The papers reported the other morning that at a fund-raising Republican gala in New York City the previous night, the orators proceeded as though Richard Nixon did not exist. By contrast, Brezhnev expressed, in an interview with newsmen, "great respect" for Richard Nixon. Mr. Brezhnev met with the press for three hours and twenty minutes, during which he permitted three questions to be asked, which averages out to one hour and seven minutes per question.

Mr. Brezhnev was as revealing as Soviet leaders generally are. Asia to comment on how the Politburo arrives at its decisions when there is disagreement, he said airily that they agreed 99.99 per cent of the time, which makes the Politburo a faithful extension of Soviet democracy.

Asked to name specific products the Soviet Union would offer to sell to the United States, Brezhnev avoided the opportunity to recommend the superior efficiency of Soviet listening devices, and did not list slave labor for export, or supersonic transports. He explained that the Soviet Union has no laws restricting emigration of its citizens "if that departure is justified." Reporters were manifestly reassured that the Watergate problem has not affected Brezhnev's estimate of Richard Nixon, though no doubt they are still concerned that Brezhnev may, by his links to Nixon, risk discrediting the Soviet regime.

2) It has been said that Watergate is responsible for paralyzing domestic policy. It is not known exactly what happens when paralysis is paralyzed. In explaining yesterday's economic announcement by Mr. Nixon the New York Times was driven, as by other very complicated stories, to a question-and-answer format.

"Question: what happens after the freeze is over?

"Answer: ..The Administration says it will go to a tough, new system of mandatory wage-price controls. It will be called Phase Four. According to Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, it could be tougher than the mandatory wage-price system known as Phase Two."

Mr. Nixon's economic policies have made the New York Times' economics reporters sound like Art Buchwald, which is an improvement. Meanwhile, as we approach the second anniversary of total government intervention in wages and prices, the Nixon Administration has triumphantly transformed the six per cent inflation rate into a nine per cent inflation rate.

3) Mr. Jeb Stuart Magruder reported to the committee investigating Watergate that he had been much influenced by his old ethics teacher, the Reverend William Sloane Coffin Jr., "whom I respect greatly." The story builds like this: Coffin violated the law in pursuit of the higher ideal of ending the Vietnam war; Magruder respects Coffin, from whom he learned ethics; therefore Magruder feels free to violate the law in pursuit of a higher ideal. A cute point. Better than that — a neat point. Never mind that Magruder is technically on the side of observing the law. The threat of McGovern taking over the country was at least as great a threat to America as the threat of the North Vietnamese taking over South Vietnam. Like I said, as they say, "counter-culture tends to breed a counter-counter-culture."

4) They had a relatively peaceful commencement at Harvard yesterday. And guess what the new president of Harvard said? He said maybe Harvard had made a mistake abolishing the Reserve Officers Training Corps in 1969. Mr. Bok, when named president of Harvard, was thought by some as being altogether too trendy for the job. Maybe the trendiest people will give us back our R.O.T.C.?

McGovern's Silence Is Eloquent

By MARTIN F. NOLAN

WASHINGTON — No one has more reason and less chance to gloat over the swampy spectacle of Watergate than George Stanley McGovern.

All of those efficient White House chaps who smote him so contemptuously are floundering about in the La Brea tar pits of deceit by honest George must be silent and solemn.

He's silent because South Dakota voters prefer it that way. McGovern must face these voters — who rejected him for President Nixon last year — in 1974. Many of them are obviously unimpressed with national politics.

What they remember about George is that when his senior Republican colleague, ex-Sen. Karl Mundt, was hospitalized for a long time and when South Dakotans sought the personal service they expected of their senators, McGovern was off shaking hands in New Hampshire or giving a speech in Ohio.

Despite the prairie ethic of silence, McGovern has been known to partake in off-the-record musings with friends, the effect of which is irony without outrage.

The press criticized me because I was indecisive, he says, but here the President's press secretary says one statement counts and everything before that is "inoperative." I was criticized, too, for not picking a good staff and so when I read about Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean, Mitchell, Stans and the rest, well I just wonder.

McGovern's Watergate was called Eagleton and he acknowledges his own role in eroding his ticket's credibility by his "1,000 per cent" backing of the Missouri senator. The campaign never recovered from that blow, he says.

In retrospect, McGovern wishes he had taken Boston Mayor Kevin White as his runningmate and has often cited White among the relatively few Democratic regulars who backed the Presidential ticket with all their might in November.

What was stunning was the refusal of Wisconsin's Sen. Gaylord Nelson to take the Vice-Presidential nomination.

Always McGovern's fallback candidate, Nelson refused, telling his old friend that he'd take the job only if he were sure McGovern would lose. Victory and the Vice Presidency was not Nelson's wish.

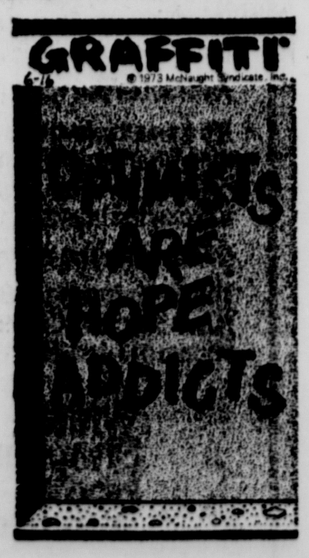

Senator Kennedy was also more enduring in McGovern's hopes largely because of hunch. That hunch proved to be wrong, as was the hunch about Humphrey, Muskie and a few more. But all of those who turned down McGovern mentioned a second choice, that bright young fellow from Missouri, Tom Eagleton.

Of all the regrets McGovern has apparently harbored, dropping Eagleton wasn't one of them. It was a patriotic duty which, after talking with Eagleton's doctors, he would do again.

After November, McGovern received no communications from President Nixon, but did acquire curious consolation from Barry Goldwater, another victim of a landslife and a man whose dignity and probity has blossomed since 1964.

McGovern is too worried about 1974 to think about elder statesman status, or even another run at the Presidency in 1976. Like most Democrats, he thinks Kennedy is the absolute Secretariat of the morning line for the nomination, but also like most Democrats, he's not really sure Kennedy will run.

As for his feeling about impeachment or disgrace, McGovern proclaims no emotional feelings or opinion. Maybe his silence is eloquence enough.

Recycle Materials

Editor, The Freeman:

The season of out-of-doors activities is back as last! Kingston now has a permanent recycling depot. The aluminum cans, clear glass bottles, and card board containers left after cook-outs and picnics can be taken to the depot for recycling. This helps keep trash out of the diminishing land-fill area, provide employment and income for members of the Retarded Children's Association and saves natural resources. Th Retarded Children's Association also sells used newspapers and magazines. It takes more fuel to make paper from wood than from used paper. So in this case the conservation of resources is multiple.

Those who go fishing can bring home their catch in those ecologically unsound plastic bread wrappers. (Most plastics are not biodegradable and so remain in the landfill after other kinds of trash have decomposed.)

The Recycling Depot is located at The Association for Retarded Children Building on Jansen Avenue in Kingston. There are several recycling depots in Ulster County, all will welcome recyclable materials.

Sincerely yours,

Editor, The Freeman:

I, as a recent member of the Sierra Club and for the past 11 months an opponent of the two 600 foot Central Hudson smokestacks in Terri Brickyard, Town of Ulster have noticed a certain discrediting of people such as me, i.e., "environmentalist" — ambiguous terms the world is full of.

Disregarding the fact that trial attorneys in 11 states across the nation have challenged the validity of just such an energy crisis, and assuming for just a minute that I believe them, (fuel companies) is it valid to raise this point?

Granting the notion that this earth is going to run out of fuel some day eventually, does it make sense to build more and more refineries and power plants to use up this limited amount of various types of fuel faster than we have to? Isn't the answer in the long run to use energy more wisely, starting now, rather than waiting for something really serious to happen, so that we are backed up against the wall? (like many students cramming for exams right now.) Eventually, hopefully learning from Skylab as one example, we will be able to trap energy sources outside the earth, e.g. sun, etc., so when we do run out here, we have something else—but that, I believe, is too much wishing too much in the future, we have to cope with the reality of the moment, that's where I believe the "environmentalists" are the "pragmatists", not the "eccentrics" that we have been branded of late.

Respectfully,

The Old Library

Editor, The Freeman:

We, the members of the Library Study Group of AAUW, Kingston Branch, feel that a quality library is a necessity for the Kingston area community. A major need of the Kingston Area Library at this time is a building that is in good repair, centrally located near a heavy traffic flow, and flexible in design. The present library buildings located at 399 Broadway, however, have many drawbacks: an increasing lack of shelf space; lack of a room for community activities; steep entrances, forbidding to senior citizens, mothers with small children, and the physically handicapped; and rapid deterioration of internal and external conditions dut to the paucity of money over the years.

The situation has not always been this way. When the library was built in 1903, it adequately served the needs of the Kingston community. Since that time the situation has changed greatly in many respects. For example, more people are going on to higher education now. As contrasted to lifestyles in 1903, the demands and complexities of today's living patterns necessitate that people stay well informed in order to keep apace. It is the responsibility of a community library to provide pertinent information so that the citizen finds himself in a commanding position.

The City of Kingston now has the opportunity to support its citizenry by financially backing a move of the library to a new location. Revenue sharing is the key to this opportunity. Libraries have been designated one of the eight priority items for which these funds may be used. The Library Study Group of AAUW, Kingston Branch, supports the use of revenue sharing funds for this purpose.

Sincerely,
MRS. KENNETH LINDQUIST
Chairman, Library Study Group

Perplexed Citizen

Editor: The Freeman

There was a time when I thought many of our so called representatives in Washington are bungling amateurs, who know nothing about the professional aspects of government and economy. The turn of events with the Vietnam War, the so-called "Peace with Honor", the Watergate Affair, and the Fuel Shortage have changed my mind. Now I know they know nothing about good government and economy. As a matter of fact at present it is easy for me to draw either one of two conclusions about them. One: some of them must be naive idiots and morons or two: they are deliberately working for the ultimate destruction and downfall of this country both economically and militarily. Which conclusion is right? Time will tell.

The following are a few examples to reinforce the above statement: (1) How in the world can increasing the federal tax on gasoline or reducing speed limits alleviate the fuel shortage? (2) We have enough oil fields in Alaska and along our Eastern coast to supply us for at least several generations, but we don't tap them. Why? Because a few hysterical environmentalists are afraid we might destroy a narrow strip of tundra or pollute the ocean with a little oil. These same environmentalists sanction federal land reclaimation projprojects, that create disastorous flooding conditions. They also let foreign countries over fish our coastal waters to the point where some species of fiish may become extinct in a few years. (3) The president recommends an increase in the exportation of natural gas at a time when we import natural gas and have a shortage of same. This is foolishness on his part to say the least. (4) They sell grain to Russia, our mortal enemy, at a subsidized rate. Yes, the American taxpayers had to pay part of the cost of each bushel of grain sent to the Communists. To top the deal off, we the American consumer have to pay more for bread, cake, and etc., because this fabulous "Wheat Deal" created a shortage of grain available for domestic consumption. (5) They talk about inflation. The Government is the creator of inflation. The only way for them to curb inflation is to halt deficit spending, liquidate the national debt, and reduce taxes. Do they do this? No! They are currently talking about increasing the debt ceiling and taxes. (6) The people elected Nixon because they were terrified at what McGovern might do. With Henry Kissinger a Liberal Democrat as Foreign Affairs Advisor, we have a Foreign policy equal to if not more radical then anything proposed by McGovern. This policy includes a systematic surrender of South East Asia to Hanoi.

What is the solution to this problem? Personally I think the Republican and Democratic parties on a national level are almost totally unconcerned with the freedom and security of the people or the future of this country. We are desperately in need of a national political party whose political philosophy is similar to but slightly to the right of the philosophy professed by the Republican party in 1968. The time has come for the voters to leave the two major parties and join parties such as the New York State Conservative Party, who are truely concerned with the future and security of this Country and its people.

For God and Country, I remain,
ATTILIO A. CONTINI

A Tribute

Editor, The Freeman:

This past week, we the people of Rosendale have suffered a tragic loss in the passing of Edwin (Eddie) Kane, Superintendent of Highways.

When Eddie was elected to his post, he knew it was an impossiblity to please everyone, but he tried his "darndest" to do that. He was most conscientious and accommodataing to the townspeople.

Men who worked with him and for him enjoyed an experience that is rare in the average employer-employe relationship.

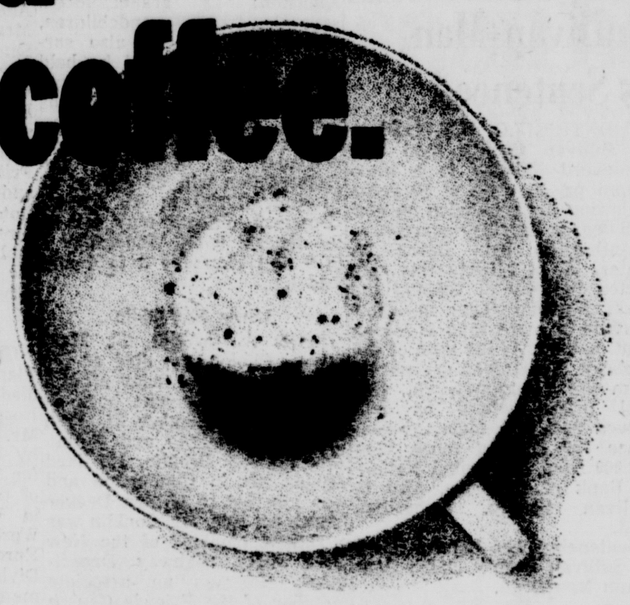

Eddie did so many good deeds, both large and small for so many people and organizations because he loved people and really loved life and lived it to the fullest.

He was a fantastic guy, a great smiling human being with a hear bigger than himself.

There is a saying, "It's nice to be important, but it's more important to be nice." That certainly applied to Eddie. We feel that not a day or week will pass that we and many others who are proud to have known him and be counted among his friends, will not remember him for.dly.

Halfway Mark Is Reached In Pledges

KINGSTON — The halfway mark in pledges and committments to the Salvation Army Capital Campaign has been reached, according to Lewis C. Kirschner, campaign chairman, following a meeting of the Advisory Board Monday night.

Kirschner said that "with 11 days remaining in our campaign, I am most confident that with the corporation and individual gifts not yet received, we will reach our goal of $75,000." He said he is appealing to all people and businesses to come forth with either a dollar or $1,000 in one payment or over a three year period, "to show the Salvation Army how we appreciate the services they are providing the community."

Houghtaling Case Ordered To Grand Jury

KINGSTON — John C. Houghtaling, 36, of 147 Greenkill Avenue, a principal account clerk with the Kingston city treasurer's office, was ordered held for the Ulster County Grand Jury after waiving preliminary hearing on a third degree grand larceny charge in City Court today. A petit larceny charge against Houghtaling was held in abeyance in City Court.

Houghtaling has been charged with the theft of a $493.74 check from the treasurer's office on Sept. 22, 1971. He is also accused of stealing $50 in parking meter money. Houghtaling remains free in his own custody.

Gunshot Wound Self-Inflicted

KINGSTON — Detectives of the Kingston Police Department said today that a gunshot wound suffered by a 21-year-old Kingston woman Saturday evening on St. James Street was "self-inflicted."

The shooting had been under investigation since Saturday evening when Camile Lentz was shot in the abdomen with a small caliber pistol. Detectives said the information about the shooting was gained from the woman, who was listed in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital.

Sullivan Man Is Sentenced

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — A Sullivan County man was sentenced Monday to a maximum prison term of 10 years following his conviction on second-degree burglary charges.

Authorities said Harry W. Yates, 27, of Liberty was convicted recently of robbing the First National Bank in Jffersonville of more than $3,500 on Sept. 5, 1972. At the time of the robbery Yates was on parole from the Petersburg, Va., federal prison where he had served part of a four-year sentence for robbing more than $13,000 from the United National Bank of Callicoon, also in Sullivan County, authorities said.

Sentencing was handed down by Sullivan County Judge Benjamin Newburgh.

Dollar Hits Record Lows in Paris, Frankfurt

LONDON (AP) — The dollar hit record lows in Paris and Frankfurt Monday amid predictions that the world's monetary problems will not be solved for some time.

The Bank for International Settlements, in its annual report issued in Basel, Switzerland, gloomily predicted that it will take years to hammer out a new world monetary system. The bank acts as an agent for central banks and governments.

It also said that Washington's failure to support the U.S. currency is one reason for the dollar's decline in recent months on world markets.

However, a top international banker who asked not to be identified predicted the dollar would begin an upswing sometime this fall.

Trading in the dollar was orderly, with the U.S. currency closing down at 4.2315 French francs in Paris, at 2.5575 West German marks in Frankfurt and at 3.0375 Swiss francs in Zurich.

In London, the pound moved up against the dollar, closing at $2.5810, up from Friday's close of $2.5775.

With the dollar weaker, gold went up $2.75 an ounce to close at $123.50 in Zurich. It rose $2 an ounce in London, closing at $122.75. But gold was well below its record high of $130 set two weeks ago

It's now or never.

Because bank-wide gift promotions will soon be a thing of the past.

Right now is your last chance ever to receive a free gift for opening or adding to a savings account at any of Heritage Savings Banks' three offices.

New state banking regulations prohibit all bank-wide gift promotions after June 30th. From that date on, gift promotions can be conducted only at the grand opening of a new office, and gifts given for new accounts only.

So beat that deadline. Come in to Heritage and claim your free gift from among the 21 shown here for depositing $500 or more. Your selection category depends, of course, on the amount of your deposit.

You'll receive not only a free gift, but the highest interest permitted by law on all accounts. For example, your money earns 5% interest on regular and day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal accounts, with an effective annual yield of 5.20% as long as interest is allowed to accumulate. We also offer certificates of deposit, with higher interest rates. Our 6% term account, for example, which has an effective annual yield of 6.27% (minimum deposit $1000, two to five years) if interest is left to accumulate.

It's now or never. So, better act now. Just keep two things in mind: minimum deposits must remain in accounts for at least a year; and, only one gift per account while the supply lasts. So bring or mail your passbook from another bank now. You'll receive your gift.

And we'll transfer your account automatically.

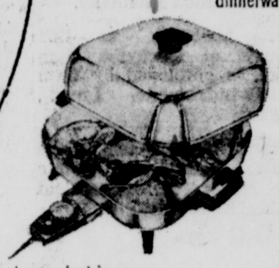

Deposit $5000 or more and choose one of these free gifts.*

Two New Members Are Welcomed By Garden Club

Two new members were welcomed into the Woodstock Garden Club at its June 6th meeting in Kleinert Gallery, Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. They are Mrs. H. Clark Bell and Mrs. Harris A. Gordon. They were introduced by Mrs. J. Albert Whittaker, membership chairman.

A Mini Flower Show was given in observance of the club's 25th anniversary. Mrs. Clyde Deavers, chairman, opened the show to the public. There were four artistic arrangment classes: Silver Anniversary; Precious Heritage; Memories All Aglow; and Threshold of Tomorrow; The Horticulture Section of the show was given classes of potted plants and five classes of garden perennials. Horticulture chairman was Mrs. Ernest Lindroth.

M. Leslie Denning, conservation chairman for the club, was responsible for the conservation exhibit and distributed educational pamphlets. The Ways and Means table was arranged by Mrs. John E. Koerner, chairman, and Gwen Summers. Proceeds will be used to support the club's community projects.

Mr. Denning also reported on a recent meeting held with Gregory G. Gebert, chairman of the Woodstock Commission for Conservation of Environment, Herbert P. Mayer, chairman of the Woodstock Civic Arts Council and Ned W. Buoymaster, chairman of the Woodstock Tree Trust.

Reports were given also by Mrs. Kate Musof, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Rade, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Michael Edwards, social chairman, served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Electa Salzmann, Mrs. John DeNero and Mrs. John E. Koerner.

Linda Yonta Weds David L. Sasso

Linda Susan Yonta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yonta of 166 Delaware Avenue, Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with David L. Sasso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sasso of Glasco, on Saturday, June 2, at St. Mary's Church in Kingston. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white peau d'ange lace fashioned with a shaped Empire bodice posed over a full bouffantlace skirt. Narrow lace created a high stand-up collar and trimmed the sleeve cuffs. A highlight of pale pink satin ribbon enhanced with lace and seed pearls encircled the fitted waist. A Camelot-styled headpiece of matching lace held her cathedral length, lace-edged mantilla.

Maureen Waleur of Kingston was honor attendant. Attendants were Sally Provenzano of Port Ewen and Diane Weider of Kingston. Kelly Ann Yonta, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Flower girl was Jodi Yonta, another sister of the bride.

For her wedding party, the bride selected a rainbow color scheme of blue, lavender, nile and maize. The gowns of embossed organza in dot-effect were styled with high sheer necklines and skirts in the demi-bell silhouette. White eyelet lace and Venise lace braid with satin ribbon accented the bodices. They wore picture hats accented with lace, to match their gowns.

Angelo DePoala of Glasco was best man. Ushers were Frank Petramale of Glasco; Steven Sasso, cousin of the bridegroom. Joseph Sasso, cousin of the bridegroom, was junior usher. Michael Yonta, cousin of the bride, Hurley, served as ringbearer.

A reception was given at Walnut Grove, Kingston.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed at New York Telephone Company in Kingston.

Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School is employed by Hudson Cement.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Sasso will reside in Glasco.

National Pageant In Poughkeepsie

The National Glamour World Pageant will be presented on Sunday afternoon, July 1, at Poughkeepsie. Models from all parts of the United States will come to this area to compete in this annual modeling contest which will be staged during a Pageant-Luncheon at the Camelot Inn. Last year's "Miss Glamour World" was Miss Cheryl West of Philadelphia, Pa. Her predecessor, who crowned her last season, was Miss Susan Carlson, currently Miss New York State for Miss Universe.

There will be five divisions in this exciting pageant. Miss Glamour World who must be between the ages of 17 and 25 years old; Glamour World Model for the Year; minimum age — 26; Teen Model of the Year, from 13 to 16 years old; Junior Miss Glamour World from nine to 12 years old; Little Miss Glamour World from five to eight years of age. Models are expected from all parts of the States.

Judging will be based on general projection, ability to perfrom as a model, and overall potential as a professional model. The show will be staged by Estelle & Alfonso and entertainment will be provided by the Estelle & Alfonso Performers' Club during the judges scoring. The Glamour World Pageant will be under the direction of Miss Ruth Tolman, author of "Charm and Poise For Getting Ahead", "Guide to Fashion Merchandising", fashion authority and renowned lecturer who has guided many of her students to stardom such as Coleen Hutchens, "Miss America" and Linda Bement, "Miss Universe." There will be 60 local girls entered in the pageant. Tickets are available at 109 Cannon Street, Poughkeepsie.

Krom - Stoeckeler Nuptials Announced Here

Susan Ann Krom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Krom Jr. of Ellenville, became the bride of William C. Stoeckeler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Stoeckeler Sr. of Ellenville, Saturday, June 9, at St. Mary's-St. Andrew's Church in Ellenville.

The Rev. Joseph Hamilton officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Albert Rode, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a silk organza gown trimmed in Nottingham lace. The full skirt had a natural waistline with pearl and daisy lace throughout. The gown featured Bishop sleeves, a lace yoke and a detachable train. Her ruffled cap headpiece held a cathedral length veil and she carried a cascade of white daisies, sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mary Margaret Krom of Ellenville was maid of honor for her sister in a nile green dotted Swiss gown. The natural waistline, Bishop sleeves and yoke bodice were trimmed with white lace and nile satin ribbon accented with rosebuds. She wore a white straw hat with nile ribbon and carried a nosegay of apricot daisies, nile daisies, apricot Abby roses and baby's breath.

Atteneants were Mrs. Donald Coutant, Miss Patricia Pressel, Miss Alice Wynkoop, all of Ellenville. Their apricot gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's and they carried nosegays of nile dasies, Abby roses and baby's breath.

Robert Pensa of Napanoch was best man. Ushers were James Rampe, William Collier Jr., and Robert Collier, all of Ellenville.

A reception was given at Napanoch Fire Hall.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Ellenville High School, is employed at Marvin Millworks, Inc., Ellenville.

Her husband, a 1971 graduate of Ellenville High School, is employed by Gem Cadillac-Oldsmobile, Inc., Kingston.

After a wedding trip to the Bahama Islands, the couple will reside at Greenfield Heights, Ellenville.

Wants to Marry but Mom Won't Sign

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 17, and have two kids. They are both by Willie, who is 19. He's in the Army now. We're not married because my mom wouldn't sign for me. When I got pregnant the first time Willie wanted to marry me, but I was only 15, and Mom said I was too young. She said the same thing when I got pregnant the second time.

I work as a waitress, and I live with Mom. She's practically raising my kids. Once in a while I go out with a guy just to get away from the house. She says as long as I'm living with her she doesn't want any more kids to raise. This really bugs me.

How can I get my mom to sign for me when Willie comes home in two months?

WILLIE'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: You can't. Wait until you are of age. Then if you and Willie still want to marry, you won't need anybody's permission.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been a lonesome widower for a year. Three months ago I ran into a nice widow I had known in school 40 years ago. We are very much infatuated with each other.

The complications are: She has an ideal home in a large town. My home has fewer conveniences and is in a smaller town.

Each wishes the other to come to their home to live. What is the custom or general practice?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: There is no "rule" concerning which house you should live in. Talk it over between you and decide where you will BOTH be happiest. If she refuses to move, then it's up to you to decide whether you would be happier without her in your own home, or WITH her in hers.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently died of a heart attack. He was in his 50s and was in good health until his death.

His brothers and sisters are all furious with me because I didn't notify them of his death until after he was buried. (They all live out of the state.)

When I phoned each one, they said: "Why didn't you CALL me? I would have come in for the funeral!" They feel that I cheated them out of paying their last respects to their brother.

Abby, this bunch are all very well-heeled financially; they are constantly traveling all over the world. In the last five years ALL of them have flown right over our town on their way to some exotic vacation spots, and they have never stopped to see us. We wrote, phoned, and begged them to visit us, but none of them had the time.

When my husband died I decided that since his family didn't think enough of him to visit him once while he was alive, I didn't feel like entertaining them at his funeral. Bitterness on my part? You bet! I know how my husband's heart ached when they didn't stop.

Print this. It may give other thoughtless, selfish relatives a jolt. It's later than they think.

PASSED UP

Silver, Golden Anniversaries Observed

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE LEEDECKE were guests of honor at a 25th anniversary party given by their children on Sunday, June 17 at the Leedecke home in Sawkill. Married on June 27, 1948 in the Fair Street Reformed Church by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra and Dr. Ernest Palen, the couple received congratulatory gifts and messages from many friends and relatives. The three Leedecke children planning the event were Wayne, Jane and Paul. Mrs. Leedecke is the former Elinor Boice. (Freeman photo by Powell)

MR. AND MRS. NELSON R. SMITH of 204 Lucas Avenue, Kingston, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a dinner-party Sunday, June 17, in The Capri 400, Port Ewen. The celebration was arranged by their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert R. Smith of Charlton. The couple had been married on June 14, 1923 in a ceremony held in the bride's home at 42 Alcazar Avenue, Kingston. Miss Ruth N. Smith, sister of Nelson Smith, had served as honor attendant while best man was the late Irving Stone Smith, a brother. Others in the wedding party 50 years ago included Mrs. Ethel Snyder, now deceased; Mrs. Jeanne Johnston, Eunice Cook, Mrs. Pansy Hudler, sister to Mrs. Smith; and Wilson Norwood. Mr. Smith is retired from "Doc Smith's Garage." He spent 55 years in the automobile business and was former partner and proprietor of City Garage on Clinton Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are members of St. James Methodist Church. Mrs. Smith was a member of the choir and various organizations for women. (Freeman photo by Powell)

Kaplan-Stringfellow Marriage

Joan Susan Kaplan of Raleigh, N.C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Kaplan, Fairway Drive, Kingston, became the bride of William Robinson Stringfellow Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stringfellow of Raleigh, N.C., on May 19 at Raleigh.

The bride attended Wappingers Central Schools and was graduated in 1970 from Kingston High School. She attended Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven and is now a student at North Carolina State University, Raleigh.

Her husband, an alumnus of Ketcham High School in Wappingers Falls, attended Norwich University in Vermont and is a student at North Carolina State University.

Mr. and Mrs. Stringfellow Jr. will reside at P-312 McKimmon Village, State University Campus, Raleigh.

Final Arguments in IBM-Telex Suit

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Attorneys for International Business Machines Corp., IBM, and Telex Corp., were to air final arguments in Telex's $1.2 billion anti-trust suit here in U.S. District Court today.

A decision on the private anti-trust action against IBM is expected to come from U.S. District Court Judge A. Sherman Christensen of Salt Lake City later this summer. The non-jury trial lasted six weeks.

Telex, a Tulsa-based concern, sells and leases what the industry calls peripheral equipment. This includes disk files, magnetic tape transports, printers, and control devices essential to the operation of a computer.

Telex contends that IBM has violated the Sherman and Clayton Anti-trust acts by using long-term leases for most of the perripheral products in such a way that Telex could not compete.

Telex seeks $1.2 billion in treble damages and a permanent injunction restraining IBM from violation of anti-trust laws. It also asks that Judge Christensen break up IBM as a "single entity monopolizing and controlling the electronic data processing industry. The court should order the divesture of IBM to the extent that a viable competitive electronic data processing industry may be created."

IBM has denied the monpoloy charges, that countered with a $25 million suit accusing Telex of unfair competition and violation of copyright. Specifically, IBM alleged that Telex had primarily carried on its business by copying the products and services of IBM, and that it hired away IBM employes who know a number of trade secrets.

The result of this industrial espionage, IBM alleges, is that Telex was able to manufacture a number of important peripheral items similar to IBM'S MRE quickly and with less money than IBM because of the head start provided by former IBM employes.

Telex admitted it infringed upon IBM's copyright in publishing one instruction manual. The admission came in part from 381 pages of findings of law filed by the Tulsa company since the end of the trial May 24. Telex said IBM was entitled to a minimum of $250 in damages since IBM had shown it suffered damages from Telex's use of the manual.

Attorneys for IBM had filed 717 pages of conclusions, contending principally that Telex failed to establish its right to court aid. IBM claimed that such relief would stop innovation and competitive pricing.

During the 29-day trial, 7,358 exhibits, 242 charts and 51 depositions were introduced into evidence. Computer peripheral equipment also was brought to the courtroom. IBM and Telex each called 23 witnesses.

Telex officials testified their company saw a $12.4 million one-year profit melt into a $913,000 loss the next because of what it said were IBM's "predatory" actions. IBM said Telex's troubles were its own doing.

A key issues in the trial was the attempt to define IBM's share of the market. Telex said IBM was a monopoly because it received in excess of 95 per cent of all profits made by the industry in the last six years from the sale or the leasing of data processing equipment. An IBM witness said the definition of the market for peripheral equipment was broader, and that IBM had only 38 per cent of the industry revenue as of 1970.

Mixed Success On Catskill Park

WOODSTOCK Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) said today although he was "disappointed" that Governor Rockefeller vetoed his bill that would have permently granted tax relief to towns, villages and school districts in Ulster County and other local governments within the Catskill Park, he was gratified that the Governor signed into law a back-up measure he also sponsored which will extend for three years transitional assessment benefits on State-owned taxable wild and forest lands.

The vetoed bill, a chapter amendment to the Adirondack Park Agency's land use plan approved by the Governor in May, would have included the Catskills in a permanent tax transition assessment formula for tax payments on State lands within the park and prevent any reduction in assessments.

Assemblyman Bell emphasized that State-owned forest land in the Catskill preserve includes many acres on local tax rolls. He said implementation of revised assessments by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment would have a distinctly unfavorable effect on the economy of towns, villages and school districts within the park.

Assemblyman Bell said: "Half a loaf is better than none. At least with the back-up legislation we have gained two years of grace for local governments and school districts which would otherwise be particularly hard-hit by reductions in assessments.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "since 1961, when revised assessments on State taxable wild and forest lands were established by the State Board of Equalization and assessments, we have been able to stave off significant erosion of the tax base and ease fiscal hardships for local governments and school districts only because the Legislature has been successful in passing temporary transitional assessment bills each year. We did it again this year, but that practice should not be necessary.

"To prevent any economic hardship and tax rate increases, a permanent formula is clearly demanded and I will continue to press for such legislation that will properly include the Catskills." Assemblyman Bell concluded.

Board Votes to Close Paper Plant

BY CARL GRAHAM

SAUGERTIES

The Saugertes Village Board unanimously voted Monday night to close the Martin Cantine Paper Company for violations of the village's anti-pollution ordinance and state envronmental standards.

The resolution will probably have more effect on possible future owners than the present ownership, since the mill has been idle for several weeks and the Cantine Company and its parent firm, Old Town Corporation of Brooklyn, filed for bankruptcy in New York City on June 4.

Board members felt that the resoluton was needed to prevent future owners from contributing air and water pollution to the community, since one section of the resolution proposed by Trustee Jim Luther would prohibit anyone taking over the plant from commencing operations until anti-pollution devices called for by the Department of Environmental Conservation are installed, tested, and in working order.

Village Clerk-Treasurer James Gage told the board that the DEC office in White Plains had given Cantine until Sept. 20, 1973, to install new boilers for smoke control and until Feb. 15, 1974, to complete tests on equipment for reduction of solvent emission (odor) from the plant, which has drawn numerous complaints from village residents. It is these items that would have to be in working order for the village to give permission for the plant to reopen.

The board postponed again action on a ban on parking on the east side of Cross Street, a move requested by the fire department, which said the street is too narrow for fire vehicles to get through when cars are parked on both sides.

Mrs. Nancy Ciaffone appeared before the board to suggest that parking be banned on the west side of the street, instead of the east side as proposed by the board. Trustee John Freligh said he felt it would be better to ban all parking, and the board decided to have a new public hearing on the matter in conjunction with their July 2 board meeting.

The board voted to purchase for $1 a property on Underwood Street owned by Charles McNally.

Paltz Village Planners Detail Zoning Changes

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Village Planning Board, engaged in the revision of the village's zoning, presented a detailed summary of the changes in the ordinance it will eventually recommend to the village board of trustees, at a public informational meeting Monday night.

The informational meeting was the third the planning board has held.

According to the summary, the proposed changes "offer a wider range of residential densities than before, but approximately the same overall density for the village." This is to be mainly accomplished by lowering the density in the village's extensive historic zone from six units per acre to two and reducing the R-3-apartment zoned-area, while raising the allowable density in the remaining R-3 zone to 12 units per acre from the present six.

Ralph Seligman, the planning board's consultant, said these moves would counterbalance, leaving the density of the village as a whole about the same as it would become under present zoning.

He said the proposed changes would allow about 1,000 additional units to be built in the village, probably housing an additional 3,500 people. According to Seligman, these are rough calculations.

There will be more differentiation between the B-1 and B-2 districts in the revised ordinance, according to Seligman. One and two family homes will be permitted uses in the B-1 zone, which encompasses upper Main Street. Lower Main Street, in the B-2 zone, will have provision for apartments above the businesses in the district.

Both proposals are designed to preserve the character of Main Street, according to Seligman.

The historic zone, in the Huguenot Street area, will also be protected. The reduced density in the zone is designed to "protect the rural ambience" of the northern part of the zone while leaving unchanged the zone's southern part.

While the R-3 districts, which allow apartment buildings, have been reduced, two new ones have been added. These, designed to serve the students and faculty of the State University College at New Paltz, are on Plattekill Avenue and on Center Street east of Oakwood. According to Seligman, development of these apartment zones might encourage students to live closer to the college instead of across town in the existing apartment complexes, and further differentiate the college part of the village from its residential area.

The former I-1, of light industrial, district is to be replaced by a highway business district. Seligman said the planning board had found the old industrial district to be "more hopeful than realistic" Highway businesses are barred from the Main Street business districts, and it is hoped they will find a home in the new highway business district on Route 32 North.

One proposed change the residents attending the meeting were opposed to was a provision allowing apartments to be built in R-2, or single family, zones. Seligman pointed out that it would be a special permit use, the density of six units per acre would have to be observed, and a minimum of 10 units would have to be developed, but those at the meeting said it was still a threat to the residential character of the zone and opposed it.

Planning Board Chairman Thomas Nyquist said his board would "rethink" the proposal.

Onteora School Board Approve New Contracts

BOICEVILLE

The Onteora School Board approved Monday night, contracts with the Non-Teaching Supervisors Association and the Onteora Administrators Association.

Contracts for both groups are effective July 1, 1973, and run for two years. Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools, said the Non-Teaching Supervisors' contract follows closely the conditions in a contract recently signed with other non-teaching employes.

The Administrator's Association contract preserves the present ratio between teachers and administrators. In addition, administrators were given additional sick days because they work on an 11-month contract instead of the 10 months worked by teachers.

Board members heard Dr. Jack Roosa, BOCES district superintendent, describe the various vocational programs offered to county students by BOCES. Following his hour-long presentation he answered questions from board members and the audience.

Herbert Howard, assistant to the superintendent, also presented a program on gifted children and what the schools can do to aid them.

The board accepted the resignations of Joyce Kruse, a clerk-typist in the district office, and Margaret Van Leuvan, a food service helper.

New teacher appointments in the high school included Ronald Rizzo, mathematics, Diane Van Aken, French, Joellen Van Etten, home economics, and John Leonard, who was transferred from the Special Education Department to elementary education.

Dock Dodges The Issue

By UPI

Dock Ellis, one of the most outspoken men in baseball, knew when it was appropriate to sidestep a question.

The question was whether the Pittsburgh Pirates' "great experiment" of the spring — switching catcher Manny Sanguillen to the outfield and making Milt May the team's regular catcher —was a failure.

The question was asked because Sanguillen was the Pirates' catcher and Gene Clines was in right field Monday night when Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs, 3-1. It was only the Pirates' third victory in 15 games and marked one of the few times this season that they have had good pitching and enough offense in the same game.

It all started back in spring training when the death of Robert Clemente prompted Manager Bill Virdon to put Sanguillen in right field and May behind the plate. The Pittsburgh pitchers didn't like the idea but what do you do when the manager is determined to make such a switch?

The same as Ellis did Monday night when asked whether putting Sanguillen back behind the plate was the answer to the Pirates' numerous woes.

"What do you want me to say?" asked Ellis. "No, its the same no matter who the catcher is."

"I've said all along I could help this team if they'd only play me," said Clines, who helped the team with four hits Monday night. "They know what I can do. I feel it's a matter of time now and that this home stand will start us on our climb."

The Philadelphia Phillies defeated the New York Mets, 9-6, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Montreal Expos, 1-0, and downed the Atlanta Braves, 13-3, in other National League games.

Clines went 4-for-4 in the leadoff spot and Rich Hebner and Bob Robertson homered for the Pirates, who dealt Ferguson Jenkins his fifth loss against seven wins. Ellis, bothered by a cold, struck out eight and walked none.

Ken Brett hit his third homer of the season and drove in another run with a sacrifice fly as the Phillies snapped the Mets' five-game winning streak. Mike Schmidt also homered for the Phillies while Rusty Staub hit a three-run homer for the Mets. Jim McAndrew suffered his fifth defeat.

Mike Tyson's third-inning homer was the decisive blow for the Cardinals over the Expos in a game halted by rain in the sixth inning. The homer came off Balor Moore and skipped off the top of the left field wall as it left the playing field. Rick Wise allowed two hits in 5⅓ innings to raise his record to 9-3.

Bill Russell drove in five runs on four singles, stretching his hitting streak to 11 games for the Dodgers. Andy Messersmith pitched a seven-hitter and struck out eight to raise his record to 7-5. Darrell Evans hit his 16th homer for the Braves and Dave Johnson his 13th for the Braves.

Bowie Reacts To Gag

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was just a gag, Bowie.

That was the word from two New York Mets' pitchers Monday after commissioner Bowie Kuhn issued a directive threatening to suspend any pitcher who would deliberately give up Hank Aaron's 715th homer.

Kuhn was a little vague on how he would prove a pitcher did it deliberately.

But it didn't make much difference because two of the pitchers who had been quoted as saying they would set Aaron up quickly made it perfectly clear that they had no such ideas.

Phil Hennigan, a Met reliever who was with the club in Philadelphia Monday to play the Phils, said, "it was said in jest. Really, we were all joking. No major league pitcher alive could do that if he was any kind of a competitor. I couldn't sleep, and Yogi (Berra) couldn't sleep. If Aaron was the last out and I had a no-hitter, I know he wouldn't strike out for me. I would like to be able to say that I never gave up any homers to Hank Aaron.

Tug McGraw, another Mets' reliever, said he'd still like to give up the homer but he'd never do it deliberately.

McGraw said, "I don't think the commissioner was referring to me. What I said was that I would give him my best stuff and then hope he hits it. I guess I should have said if it doesn't cost us a ball game. I think the commissioner is right. You have to pitch as well as you can regardless of the situation. Hank's got me three or four times already and he didn't need any help. He won't have had any help on the first 713 and he won't need any on 714."

Giving up famous homers usually makes a pitcher a footnote to history. Trivia buffs remember that Tom Zachary of Washington gave up Babe Ruth's 60th and Tracy Stalard of Boston gave up Roger Maris' 61st. Guy Bush of Pittsburgh gave up Babe Ruth's 713th and 714th homers but he isn't remembered because the figure 714 didn't have any significance at the time.

Kuhn sent the following directive Monday to the major league clubs:

"I am greatly disturbed by press stories quoting some of our pitchers as saying or implying that they would be willing to groove a pitch to Henry Aaron to help him in his pursuit of the record for total home runs.

"While I recognize the possibility of misquotation, I must remind you that any such conduct would violate the requirement of Major League Rule 21 that every player must give his best efforts toward the winning of any baseball game in which he is involved. To do otherwise will result in a long-term suspension.

Aaron In Front

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hank Aaron isn't a first baseman but he's a runaway choice for the first base position in the National League All-Star game this year.

In the latest balloting announced Monday, Aaron has picked up 111,262 votes for the first base post. That not only makes him a shoo-in for the first base job but it leaves him second only to Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, in the overall balloting. Bench is the top vote-getter with 151,076 votes.

The National League All-Star votes:

First base—Henry Aaron, Atlanta, 111,262; Willie Stargell, Pittsburgh, 41,800; Willie McCovey, San Francisco, 30,385; Tony Perez, Cincinnati, 17,899; Lee May, Houston, 7,981; Nate Colbert, San Diego, 7,929.

Second base—Joe Morgan, Cincinnati, 79,925; Glenn Beckert, Chicago, 39,236; Dave Cash, Pittsburgh, 30,236; Tito Fuentes, San Francisco, 26,714; Felix Millan, New York, 22,836; Ted Sizemore, St. Louis, 20,194.

Third base—Ron Santo, Chicago, 61,648; Joe Torre, St. Louis, 55,960; Doug Rader, Houston, 24,330; Richie Hebner, Pittsburgh, 21,119; Darrell Evans, Atlanta, 19,647; Denis Menke, Cincinnati, 13,766.

Shortstop—Chris Speier, San Francisco, 69,907; Dave Concepcion, Cincinnati, 49,683; Don Kessinger, Chicago, 41,320; Bud Harrelson, New York, 23,017; Bill Russell, Los Angeles, 14,245; Gene Alley, Pittsburgh, 12,427.

Catcher—Johnny Bench, Cincinnati, 151,076; Manny Sanguillen, Pittsburgh, 27,465; Ted Simmons, St. Louis, 12,687; Dave Rader, San Francisco, 11,556; Randy Hundley, Chicago, 8,843; Bob Watson, Houston, 5,820.

Outfield—Pete Rose, Cincinnati, 86,118; Billy Williams, Chicago, 69,470; Cesar Cedeno, Houston, 67,660; Bobby Bonds, San Francisco, 64,134; Lou Brock, St. Louis, 51,492; Al Oliver, Pittsburgh, 37,858.

ANOTHER RUN FOR THE BREWERS — Second baseman Pedro Garcia scores from third base as Boston catcher Carlton Fisk reaches around him for the throw to the plate in third inning of Monday's game. Garcia came in on Davey May's sacrifice fly. Milwaukee won. (UPI)

Chisox Need Some Pitching

By UPI

Dave Debusschere was in the broadcast booth Monday night but the Chicago White Sox could have used him on the field.

Debusschere, the New York Knicks' standout who will become the New York Nets' general manager in another year, was the special guest announcer for the White Sox' nationally televised game against the California Angels.

He saw the Chicago pitching break down as the Angels exploded for four runs in the fourth inning and five more in the fifth en route to a 9-2 victory behind the 10-hit pitching of Rudy May.

DeBusschere was a one-time pitching prospect for the White Sox before he chose basketball over baseball. The White Sox once kept him over a guy named Denny McLain. And they could of used his pitching as Eddie Fisher was knocked out in the fourth inning and both Steve Kealey and Jim Geddes were also victimized.

The loss left Chicago's lead in the Western Division at just one-half game and five teams are now separated by just 1 1-2 games. It's a real scramble now, mainly because the Chicago pitching staff has broken down. Chicago has given up 24 runs in its last two games.

The Angels were beaming over the win. "This was a big game," said May. "You know, the first one on the road is always important and when you win, it motivates the team for the next game. It was an indication of how we can play. Now we've got a few players who've been in the World Series."

One of those players is Frank Robinson, who started the four-run fourth with a single. Singles by Rich Scheinblum and Ken Berry, Al Gallagher's two-run triple and Jeff Torborg's run-scoring single completed that rally and the Angels had all the runs they needed although they made it a rout with five more in the next inning.

In other games, Texas beat Minnesota 7-4, Detroit topped Cleveland 5-1, Milwaukee beat Boston 8-3, and Oakland beat Kansas City 9-5.

The amazing Milwaukee Brewers continued their torrid streak with their 15th win in their last 16 games as George Scott hit two homers and Jim Colborn pitched a six-hitter to beat Boston. Milwaukee leads the East by 1½ games. Colborn is now 9-2 and says, "there's no reason not to think 20 wins."

Scott said, "Johnny Briggs and I haven't been hitting like the fourth and fifth hitters in the order. If we break out, watch out." Manager Del Crandall said "there's no reason at all we can't keep on winning. The most exciting thing for me is that we don't have anybody hitting over their heads. We don't have anyone hitting .350."

Joe Rudi, hitting .228 this year, drove in four runs with a pair of doubles to lift Oakland past Kansas City. Oakland scored four runs in the first against 20-year-old rookie Mark Littell and coasted to the win. Kansas City is one-half game back of Chicago and Oakland is one game behind.

Dave Nelson collected three singles and scored three runs and Jim Mason hit his first major league homer to lead a 15-hit attack to pace Texas past Minnesota. Pete Broberg pitched 6 2-3 innings to get the victory.

A two-run homer by Aurelio Rodriguez and solo shots by Dick Sharon and Bill Freehan paced Detroit to its victory over Cleveland. Jim Perry pitched a four-hitter to boost his record to 8-5 and keep the third place Tigers two games in back of Milwaukee in the Eastern Division.

Bullets Hire K.C. to Coach

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The professional sports boom in Washington has again tapped San Diego, with the hiring of former Conquistador head coach K.C. Jones to lead the Capital Bullets of the NBA.

Bullets owner Abe Pollin announced Monday that Jones will be expected to "bring Washington a championship team."

Last month, a group of Washington businessmen bought the baseball team in San Diego, although their prospects for winning a title next year are not as bright as the Bullets or the Redskins.

Controversy Surrounds Shavers' KO of Ellis

By MIKE HUGHES
UPI Executive Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Controversy surrounded Earnie Shavers' entry into the big time Monday night when he knocked out former heavyweight champion Jimmy Ellis in the first round at Madison Square Garden.

Referee Harold Valan, who called the knockout at 2:39 of the scheduled 12-rounder, was adamant he had tolled 10 after picking up the count from timekeeper Joe Sentarpia, but the Ellis camp thought otherwise.

"I heard seven and got up," a surprisingly cheerful Ellis, of Louisville, Ky., said in his dressing room. "My brain was clear and I was ready to continue."

Angelo Dundee, the fifth-ranked Ellis' trainer-manager, said: "I never heard 10. Jimmy appeared in trouble because he fell on his arm and was unable to get it out of the way as he tried to regain his feet."

The 27-year-old Shavers, who came in at 206 ¼ pounds against the 199 ¾ of Ellis, said, "I don't know about the count. I was just watching Ellis try to get up."

Valan said he had signalled the finish and then grabbed Ellis by the arms to make sure he knew it was all over.

Despite the controversial ending, there was no denying the unranked Shavers' punching power. Even had Ellis beaten the count, it is questionable whether he would have lasted the distance against the powerhouse punching of the man from Warren, Ohio.

The end came dramatically and suddenly. Ellis had Shavers in a neutral corner and was belting him with right crosses to the head after having opened him up with a left hook. He stepped back momentarily and that was it...a right uppercut ripped through his guard and caught him on the head. Ellis went down as though pole-axed and made two unsuccessful attempts to regain his feet.

In his dressing room he pointed to a puffed and bruised eye to show where he had been hit.

"I told you, I told you," the jubilant Shavers said later. "Anyone I hit will go."

Shavers conceded he had been hit a couple of good shots, but "I wasn't groggy. I was in full command. He cuffed me and hit him a couple of good lefts."

Shavers thus followed former champions Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier to knock Ellis out. It was his 44th victory by the short route in 47 bouts. He has two losses.

In his crowded dressing room, where Shavers' wife LeVerne led the victory celebration, Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner announced Shavers' next opponent will be Jerry Quarry. No date was announced.

Quarry was to have appeared Monday night but was knocked out by stomach flu and Ellis came in as a substitute.

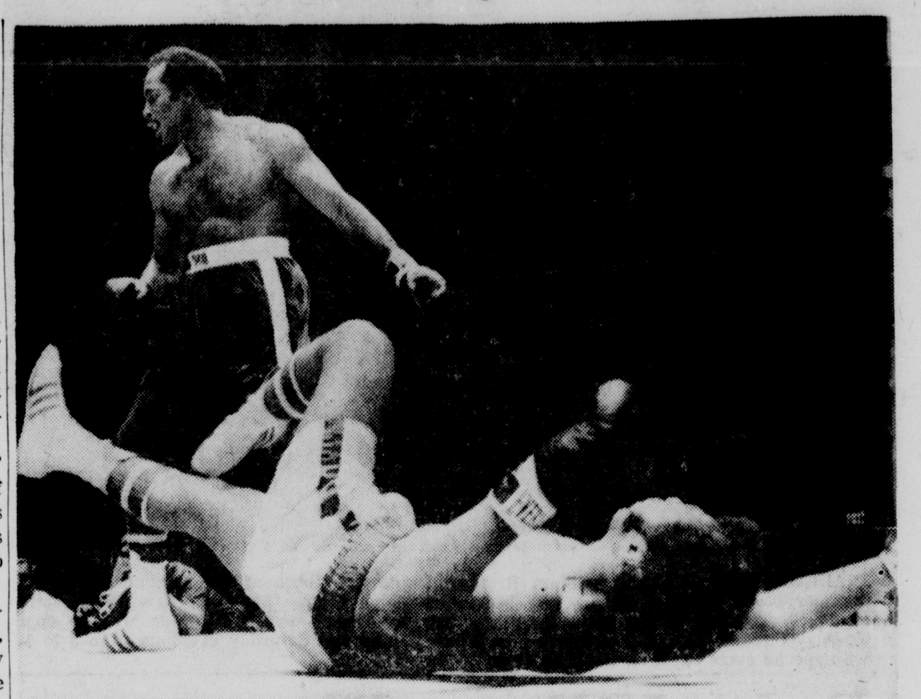

Ellis said: "I guess I got careless. I thought I had him going and dropped my guard and that was it."

Dundee said: "He stood back to admire his work like a novice and got nailed for his trouble."

Asked what his 33-year-old charge can expect in the future, Dundee said, "We'll just have to wait and see."

Shavers, who entered the ring in a blue robe with the inscription "Doing it for Ohio" on the back, earned $12,000 against the $25,000 of Ellis, who suffered his eighth loss in 46 starts.

Former champions Ali, Floyd Patterson and Ernie Terrell were among the fight fraternity at ringside to see Shavers go about his destruction before a half-full Garden audience.

KO — Former heavyweight champion Jimmy Ellis hits the canvas as opponent Earnie Shavers turns toward neutral corner after his right uppercut to the jaw floored the former champ at 2:39 of the first round at Madison Square Garden Monday night. Shavers became the third heavyweight to knock out Ellis. (UPI)

Jocelyne: Confident

MONTREAL (UPI) — Jocelyne Bourassa, her first professional golf win behind her, said she is confidently looking forward to the remainder of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, particularly the U.S Ladies Open.

Miss Bourassa dropped a 28-foot pressure putt on the final hole of regulation play Monday to move into a sudden death round in the La Canadienne golf championship against Judy Rankin and Sandra Haynie.

Miss Rankin failed to make par on the second hole of the sudden death round and was eliminated. Miss Haynie bogied the third hole and Miss Bourassa dropped a three-foot putt for her par and the $10,000 winner's purse.

Miss Rankin and Miss Haynie tied for a share of the second place money of $5,100. Betty Burnfeindt earned $3,100 for her fourth place finish with a 216 and Carol Mann won $2,400 for her fifth position at 217 for the 54-hole tournament.

Jane Blalock was sixth with a 218 and won $2 000.

"That's not going to be the last one I'm going to win," an elated Miss Bourassa said. Quebec's first golf tournament was the first win on the LPGA tour for the 1972 LPGA rookie of the year.

"I don't know how many more tournaments I'll enter or win, but I'll be there," she said. "From here I'll be going to Stouthbury (Conn.) for the Heritage Village Open and I'll be trying to win that one too. "As for the U.S. Open, there's no way I'm going to miss that one. No way at all," said the petite 26-year old native of Shawinigan, Quebec.

Miss Bourassa's $10,000 purse Monday moved her up into the top 20 money winners on the LPGA tour this year with earnings of just over $13,000.

WHO SAYS OUR VOLVO WAGON CAN'T CARRY A LOAD OF 4x8' PLYWOOD?
Some car dealers make a big thing of plywood sheets fitting inside their wagons. Our Volvo 145 was built for people and luggage. It'll hold two front seat passengers up to 6'6½", three in back with legroom equal to an Olds Vista Cruiser, and 12 two-suiters. Or you can put down the back seat and fit in a six-foot sofa. For carrying plywood, we carry roof racks.

Cade's Hits Insure Win

KINGSTON — Dave Cade slammed his fourth hit of the night in the bottom of the seventh inning at Block Park to drive in a run and boost the Rotron squad to a come-from-behind, 13-12 City Slo-Pitch victory over Yallums in D Division action.

McCardle's topped White Eagle, 6-2, Circle Cab pounded RNC Advertising, 15-7, and Wayside slugged Mahoney's, 11-6, in other games.

The lead changed hands five times before Rotron rallied for two in their last chance to pull Bob Sleight out of the fire. Yallums got to Sleight for one in the first, went ahead again with a three-run burst in the third, and took what looked like the final lead with a four-run spurt in the sixth.

Rotron battled back all the way, and with power from Joe Whelan, Sleight and Bill Keating, who each rapped three hits, bunched six runs in the third to get back in the game. John Pigano took the defeat, giving up 18 hits, and John Bouton tripled for the losers.

The Letus boys, Pete and Harry, each socked a triple to pace the Morticians over the Birds. McCardle's got three in the third and never trailed as Harry Letus won a battle of 11-hitters from Tony Turck in the C Division.

Circle Cab got its B win with circuit help from Joe and Dan Brown. The victors scored in each of the first six innings to win in a walk over the Advertisers. Bob Smith homered and hurled the defeat.

Tom Scarey, Tony Secreto and Pat Burke each tagged a home run and Scott Wilson and Tom Awaner each lashed a brace of triples to lead Wayside Inn to an A Division Triumph. Burke lobbed an eight-hitter to defeat Brick Haslam.

Doctor Has Right Medicine

SCHENECTADY — John Doctor stayed hot on the Northeastern PGA circuit Monday, capturing a win for the second straight week as he teamed with Bill Gressick of Pleasant View to post a 34, 35-69 over the Municipal Golf Course here in the Pro-Pro Tournament.

Doctor, playing out of Pinehaven, last week teamed with Woodstock's Jim Hutchins for a victory. Hutchins paired with Stew Smith of Edison here, but it wasn't the best of days for Ulster County pros. Hutchins and Smith shot 36, 38-74. Sawyerkill's Bud Cordore and Al Stein of Glens Falls fired 38, 36-74. And Alex Gerlak of Twalfskill teamed with Stan Mios of Wolferts Roost to shoot 37, 38-75.

Doctor and Gressick held a two-stroke edge over the field under the wet conditions. Five teams tied for the runnerup position at 71. Ron Philo of the host club and Gordy Faulkner of Tall Timber paired nines of 35 and 36, and John Maurycy of Mohawk and Rolfe Bruckert of Wolferts Roost carded 39, 33. Also, Gerry LaVergne of Leeds and John Taylor of Albany shot 36, 35; Bob Haggerty Jr. of Schenectady and Joe Kendall of Onteora recorded 36,35; and Lou Merkle of Canajoharie and Al Stein of Glens Falls had 35, 36.

Ticonderoga's Tom Gunning paired with Ed Ryan of Little Falls for 35, 37-72. Other finishers were John Gaucas of Van Schaick and Tom Haggerty of Glens Falls with 36, 37-73; Normanside's Raph Montoya and Pete Palmer with 35, 38-73; Hap Duval of Schenectady and George Lauretti of Winding Brook with 36,37-73; and Dave Lewis of Mohawk and Jerry Moynihan of Edison with 36, 37-73.

The next event on the Northeastern schedule is a Pro-Ladies tournament set for Normanside on July 6.

ZOOMING DOWN THE HUDSON in a typical outboard regatta scene that will be repeated July 21-22 when the Northeastern Power Boat marathon races will be held off Hidden Harbor Yacht Club in Port Ewen.

Power Boat Marathon On Hudson, July 21-22

PORT EWEN — The Northeastern Division Power Boat marathon races will be held on July 21 and 22, it was announced by Morgan Turner, race chairman.

The races, sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association will be held for the third year in a row on the Hudson River off the shoreline of Hidden Harbor Yacht Club at Port Ewen.

It is expected that the event will again attract over 100 boats from all over the eastern United States, Canada and as far west as Nebraska.

Sponsored by Hidden Harbor Yacht Club, the races are due to start at 1 p.m. on both days with seven classes of boats racing the three-mile oval course. Speeds will range from 61 m.p.h. to 107 m.p.h. Over fourteen hundred dollars in prize money will be awarded. Trophies will be provided by the F & M Schaefer Brewing Company.

Last year over 1,500 spectators viewed the races.

Gibson Has 268 In Mixed Loop

KINGSTON — Lloyd (Hoot) Gibson fashioned the highest single of the 1973 summer bowling season with a 268 solo in the Friday Nite Mixed League at Woodstock Lanes. He also led the league with a 576 series.

Eileen Scanlan led the distaff department with 187-507. The DDT's took both team honors with 738 and 2009.

BOOSTER MIXED — Mike Marcello 222; team highs: Team Fourteen 684, Kelder's Grocery 1836.

Major Backing

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The eight-team Southern League has the support of six American League and two National League teams. The Eastern Division includes Columbus, Ohio (Houston Astros), Savannah, Ga., (Atlanta Braves), Orlando (Minnesota Twins) and Jacksonville (Kansas City Royals).

The Southern League's Western Division was Montgomery, Ala., (Detroit Tigers), Knoxville (Chicago White Sox), Asheville, N.C., (Baltimore Orioles) and Birmingham, Ala., (Oakland Athletics). Birmingham got off to a poor start this spring, winning only two of its first 21 games.

Coleman Honors 1972-73 Athletes

KINGSTON — Coleman High School's Varsity Club sponsored its fourth annual sports banquet at the Hurley Avenue school Saturday night, and Tony Maneen and Katy Begley walked off with the highlights of the festivities, the Athletes of the Year Awards.

Maneen, the top cross-country runner in Coleman's history and a leading member of the golf team, received his award from Mayor Francis R. Koenig. The Mayor also presented Miss Begley with her trophy for her outstanding performance in three sports.

Several special awards were presented. Bob Nelson, chairman of the Coleman Booster Club, recognized the achievements of the junior varsity basketball team, the first team in Coleman history to complete an undefeated season, with plaques for each member. Plaques and a trophy were also given to the members of the golf squad by John Stefano, president of the Ulster County Athletic League, for winning the league championship this year, also a Coleman first.

John Blundell was the recipient of an award sponsored by the Varsity Club in memory of fellow classmate Thomas Dalton. The plaque will hang in the Coleman lobby.

Les Lombardi, acting in his last official capacity for Coleman athletics, introduced the coaches who announced the Most Valuable Players in each sport. Ken Ward, who vacates his position for post graduate work at Arizona St. University in the fall, announced Tony Maneen as the cross-country winner and Tom Ryan as the tennis representative.

Frank Stauble gave the junior varsity baseball award to Jim Amato. Mrs. Pat Amitrano then presented girls' awards to Kim McCormick in junior varsity basketball, Mary Mooney in varsity basketball, Mary Cooke in junior varsity volleyball, Kathy Lyle in varsity volleyball, Mary Lisa Ruzzo in field hockey, and Sue Weber in softball.

Wayne Reynolds, varsity baseball coach, named Ed Mathieu as the Statesmen's top diamond standout. Pete Gallagher was the MVP of the freshman basketball team.

Basketball awards were a family affair as Dan Mahoney received the junior varsity MVP from Coach Lombardi. Varsity Club President Tim Mahoney won the varsity award. Athletic Director Bill DuBois presented the latter and gave the golf award to A. J. Maneen.

In soccer, Elliot Pobbi-Asere named Ron Weber of the varsity as MVP. Weber was also cited for his performance in track along with hurdler Joe Bertone.

Stefano gave recognition to the athletes who had been named to All-UCAL status during the past year, cross-country team members Tom Nee, Jim Rioux, Paul Schiller, Tony Maneen and Kevin Post; basketball players Phil Palladino, Tim Mahoney and John Geuss; and baseball players Ed Mathieu, Kevin Coughlin, Vince Schell and Phil Timbrouck.

Williams Hurls 0-Hitter In Ulster Little League

KINGSTON — John Williams of the Kiwanis Yankees in the Town of Ulster Little League pitched the fifth no-hit, no-run game of 1973 season with a 19-0 zipping of Dick's Arco Mets. He struck out 13, walked only two, collected a triple and two singles and knocked in three runs.

Bruce Wood homered for the Yankees, his second of the season. Phil Haber slammed his second homer of the season in the Kingston National.

John Melville and Ed Heins combined for a one-hitter for Lions Club Dodgers in the Esopus Little League. Bob Modeen slammed his third homer and two singles for the Dodgers.

Braves Host Valley Central

KINGSTON — Player-Manager Gary Dross thinks his Kingston Braves are a little stronger than in 1972, as they prepare to play their oft-delayed Hudson Valley Rookie League opener tonight at Dietz Stadium at 8 p.m.

The Valley Central Geminis furnish the opposition for General Manager Fred Davi's 2-1 Braves, who are scheduled to play four games in the next five days.

Dross, a Mid-Hudson Conference MVP at Orange County Community College, is optimistic about the 1973 pennant race, as he sends Mike Alecca against the Orange County nine tonight.

"I think we're a little stronger than last year," he said. "Our pitching has more depth and I think our hitting will be at least as good."

Dross admitted, however, that the key to the Northern Division pennant is beating the Poughkeepsie Lasers, a Kingston nemesis for the past several seasons.

Alecca, tonight's starter, was an All-UCAL pitcher at Rondout Valley High. The other pitchers are veteran Tom Gallo, who can double as an outfielder, and Bob Marz, of Kingston High School fame, another pitcher-outfielder.

General Manager Davi has recruited extensively from among Ulster County Athletic League graduates in shoring up the 1973 Braves. Three All-UCAL stars — Bill Schiller and Rick Pesavento of New Paltz and George Wallach of Rondout — join Alecca on the staff.

The Braves' infield appears set with Manager Dross at first; Rocky Secreto at second; Pesavento at third and Jerry Hawkins, a perennial top hitter at shortstop.

The outfield trio consists of Mike Palladino, Don Hastings and John Carter, with several of the pitchers capable of playing the outfield. Gallo, of course, in addition to being top pitcher, is one of the best hitters on the team.

After tonight's home opener, the Braves host the powerful Poughkeepsie Lasers Thursday at 8 p.m. Saturday, they are scheduled for a doubleheader with the Newburgh Nuclears at Newburgh, the first game at 1:30 p.m., the nightcap at 4:30 p.m.

The Nuclears have an 0-4 record and didn't figure to upset the Braves and there should be some optimism about Thursday's important test with the Lasers, who recently lost their first game in two years to the Newburgh Atoms.

Beacon is undefeated after five games in the Northern Division, with the Lasers, second at 3-1 and Kingston 2-1.

The Bank, Chidsey's BRL Winners

KINGSTON — Mike Costello got the Vols off to a fast start in the National Division of the Babe Ruth League. He singled home a run in the first inning and doubled in two more in the second as the Vols coasted home to a 9-5 victory over error-prone Chidsey DeForest.

In an opener in the American Division, The Bank rode a two-hitter by Ed Glynn to post a 6-2 victory over J&G Dry Wall-Charlie's Car Wash.

Costello's hitting powered the Vols to a 6-2 lead after two complete innings, and between eight Chidsey errors and Gary LaConture's fastball, the losers never got closer. The Vols scored once in the fourth and twice in the top of the seventh to build their margin as Rich Alecca chipped in with two RBI's.

La Conture struck out 12 en route to the win, faltering only in the second when three walks paved the way for two Chidsey runs, and in the seventh when losing pitcher Joe Seymore tagged him for a three run homer that ended the scoring. Seymore lasted all the way for Chidsey, allowing only six hits, but the leaky defense and six walks defeated him.

The Bank grouped four runs in the fourth to give Glynn all the cushion he needed. John Stote, who only gave up three hits himself, went the route and took the loss.

Ferraro Homers for Syracuse

Mike Ferraro slammed his first home run since his return to Syracuse in the International League, as the Chiefs defeated Pawtucket, 5-2, Monday.

Mike Pazik scattered four hits and Rich Bladt added another homer for the Chiefs.

In other games, the Rochester Red Wings swept a doubleheader from Tidewater, 5-3 and 1-0, as Don Hood pitched a 3-hit shutout. Charleston whipped Peninsula 7-3 and Richmond blanked Toledo 3-0.

Top Shopay and George Hutson both chalked up firsts for the Red Wings. Hutson recorded his first pitching victory and Shopay collected his first home run.

Rowland Office's home run highlighted an eight-hit Richmond attack as the Braves beat Toledo.

Nate Ott and Dave Parker hammered home runs to lead Charleston past the Whips. The victory was the Charlies' third straight.

Kingston Hospital Girls Register Triple Play

KINGSTON — Maggie Church of the Kingston Hospital pitched a five-hitter and Sugar Senor and Ellen Faurote pulled off a triple play, as the Hospital team blanked Wayside 5-0 in the Women's City Softball League. Sugar Senor also hit a homer and double.

In other games, the Hospital scored four runs in the top of the seventh to edge Lone Star 11-10; Wonder Bugs edged the YMCA 10-9; and Garden of Eden overwhelmed Dental Flossies, 44-16.

Pat Nagy hit two homers and Dolores Manfredo had one for the Flossies. Peggy Wright collected six hits, including two homers and four singles for Garden of Eden. Fanny Gray had four homers and a single and Diane Armstrong, a homer and four singles. Mary Knickerbocker and Doreen Palermo collected five hits each.

Kathy Longendyke of Lone Star and Carlotta Musto of the YMCA hit home runs.

LAST INDIAN WAR VET DIES — Fredrak Fraske, the last Army veteran of the American Indian Wars, died Monday at the age of 101. The Veterans Administration said Fraske died at the home of his daughter Lillian Fraske (R) in Chicago, Ill. He served in the Wyoming Territory during the 1880s and 1890s, and was discharged in 1897. Hermit in Maine Does His Thing

MANANA ISLAND, Maine (AP) — For more than half of his 76 years, Ray Phillips has been a dropout from society, living as a hermit on this tiny island off the Maine coast.

His wild white hair and beard and tattered clothes seem to mark him as untamed as the sheep, gander and sea birds that follow him about. But his nature is as gentle as the peaceful life he chose back in the depression.

The weather decides what the stooped recluse makes of his days on this rocky, almost treeless islet 11 miles from the mainland.

If it's sunny, Phillips does "what I do best — walk," tends his animals and looks for driftwood along the shore. Rain drives him inside his cluttered hut to read, listen to the radio or correspond with folks who've visited the island.

Manana is separated by a narrow channel from Monhegan Island, an artists' colony, and many Monhegan tourists seek out the bronze-skinned hermit to photograph him and philosophize about his solitary life.

"Some days in the summer you'll have 25 or 50 come over here. I don't get time enough to myself to get lonesome — never have," Phillips said.

A University of Maine graduate, Phillips went to New York City in the late 1920s where he worked as a teacher and food inspector. But he quickly tired of the noise and crush of people.

"I wanted to be independent, have a pleasant life outdoors," he said. "I settled my mind to leave the city in 1931.

"There was just me to think about. I was never skillful enough to get married," he added.

Phillips lived and fished on Monhegan for a few years, then bought one-sixth of the 55-acre island. "But in practice, I own it all," he said, "because the other owners never bother to come."

He is the only resident except for a Coast Guardman who on a rotating basis operates a fog signal station here.

From old boards that washed up on the rocks, Phillips built a rough dwelling perched haphazardly on the side of a cliff facing Monhegan. He lives in one room, about 12 by 15 feet, and sheep meander through the other hay-strewn quarters.

There is no electricity on Manana, so Phillips uses kerosene lamps for lights. He catches rain water in barrels for washing. The Coast Guard gave him a wood stove for cooking and heat.

His battery-operated radio is his main connection with the outside world.

"I get up at dawn and turn the thing on, and I know all about Watergate," he chuckled. "Can't keep them honest down there. But likely one politician is as crooked as the other."

A World War I veteran, he receives $109 monthly government pension and $77 monthly in Social Security.

He takes a dinghy to Monhegan for mail and groceries, but once in a while, he acknowledged, he goes to Rockland on the mainland to get a haircut, shave, stay overnight in a hotel and check out the local go-go girls.

The Eight Cent Stamp . . . May Become a Memory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the House Post Office Committee Monday agreed with the postmaster general that first class mail may have to carry a 10-cent stamp on it.

Elmer T. Klassen, head of the U.S. Postal Service, said he would ask the Postal Rate Commission in September for permission to raise the price of the eight-cent stamp to 10 cents as of the beginning of 1974.

Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., said, "I have predicted the cost would rise to 15 cents by 1975." Klassen's statement in the U. S. News and World Report interview was "a trial balloon," he said.

Dulski, a Buffalo Democrat, said the price increase would have to go into effect sooner than 1974 because the service is "in a hell of a mess" and needs the added revenue.

But he blamed the postal service for its predicament. "They are spending money like a drunken sailor," Dulski said, and have made poor management decisions which resulted in a reduction in postal service quality

One of the worst, he said, was a cutback in personnel by encouraging early retirements that left a vacuum of experience which the service attempted to fill by hiring inexperienced persons, leading to a decline in quality, Dulski said.

But he said rising employe costs were adding to the postal service's woes, raising the fiscal deficit. The service and postal unions currently are holding negotiations on a new labor contract to replace one which expires July 20.

Fire Causes Minor Damage

TILLSON

A fire which caused minor damage to a reportedly unoccupied dwelling on Springtown Road in Tillson late Monday night is under investigation today.

The blaze was spotted by a Tillson fireman driving past the house. Firefighters said the blaze was apparently set in a living room chair. Damage was confined to the chair and a portion of a wall on the first floor.

The owner of the house was not identified, but firefighters said he resides in Monroe, N. Y.

Representative Charges Meat Not Inspected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign meat and meat products, including horsemeat, are being shipped into the United States without inspection by government meat inspectors, Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., charged Monday.

Melcher, the only veterinarian in congress, said uninspected meat and poultry products from the Peoples Republic of China—which is ineligible to ship meat to the United States—also is entering the country through New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Chicago, and Boston.

The uninspected horsemeat, he said, comes mostly from Mexico and Canada.

The Montana Democrat based his charges on a report by Inspector General Nathaniel E. Kossack of the U.S. Department of Agriculture which the congressman placed into the congressional record.

Melcher said the report, which blames U.S. Customs inspectors for the entry of uninspected meat, was intended for internal USDA use only but that he had received a copy from "a concerned person with access to it."

The inspector general's report said horsemeat was being admitted mostly from Mexico and Canada without inspection. It said customs inspectors referred only edible horsemeat to USDA meat inspectors.

Inedible horsemeat is supposed to be dyed or otherwise changed to make sure it cannot be sold for human consumption, the report said, but USDA had not provided customs officials with guidelines to assure it was not sold as food for humans.

Hasbrouck Hall Fair Planned

MODENA

A group of Town of Plattekill residents have organized and will present the Hasbrouck Hall Fair in Modena on June 23. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Route 32 and Route 44-55.

The fair will emphasize the arts, antiques and crafts of the Mid-Hudson Valley in the 19th Century. Antique dealers, crafts practitioners and quilters will featured, along with foods of that period.

Mrs. Earl DeWitt is serving as general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Fosler, Mrs. Robert Coy, Mrs. Eugene Coy, Mrs. Roy Jensen, Mrs. Floyd Wells, Mrs. Harold Mills, Mrs. Eber Palmer, Mrs. Carol Seamon, Robert Henry, Floyd Wells, an several others.

Retirement

Mrs. Mae F. Connors, senior cashier examiner in the office of County Clerk Albert Spada, has announced her retirement after having served that office for the past 28 years. Mrs. Connors, the wife of John J. Connors of 26 Boulder Avenue, Kingston, will be honored at a dinner being given for her June 29 at the Rathskeller. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p. m. with dinner planned for 7. Mrs. Connors, who began work in the county clerk's office in 1945, is retiring June 30.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSIDER THE DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION'S REVISION TO ITS RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE CONTROL OF AIR POLLUTION

The Federal Clean Air Act Amendments of 1970 require a series of primary and secondary standards for ambient air levels of air pollutants. As part of the 1970 Act, New York State is to submit air quality control strategies to ensure the maintenance of these standards once they are achieved. The Department of Environmental Conservation will hold a public hearing relative to revisions to Part 200 and new Part 210 of Title 6 of the Official Compilation of Codes, Rules, and Regulations of the State of New York, which relate to the control of com- ... to ensure maintenance of the standards and control of fugitive dust.

The public hearing will be held at:

2:30 p.m.
Monday, July 30, 1973
NYS Dept. of Environmental Conservation
Room 106A and B
50 Wolf Road
Albany, New York

Written statements received prior to, or at, the public hearing will be considered as a part of the official record and need not be read for the ... at that time. No testimony will be received following the hearing.

Copies of Part 200 and Part 210 are available from the Department's Region 4 Office at 50 Wolf Road, Albany. A copy may be obtained by visiting this office.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING AN ORDINANCE GOVERNING HAWKING, PEDDLING AND SOLICITING ON THE PUBLIC STREETS OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, NEW YORK

On ... Ald... Titus B. Sim... and Clarence Stoutenburg

Se... Thomas M. Davitt

BE IT ORDAINED, that the Ordinance of the City of Kingston, New York, entitled "Hawking, Peddling and Soliciting" which was adopted by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, on the 5th day of June, 1934, be modified and amended by adding thereto a Section to be known as "Section 10a" and reading as follows:

"10a. It shall be unlawful from and after the date of effectiveness of this Ordinance amending the aforedescribed Ordinance to hawk, peddle or solicit for sale on the public streets of the City of Kingston, New York, any of the goods, wares and merchandise, including food stuffs, from any boat or car on a railroad track or on any public street or public place or on foot or from any animal or vehicle which is situated within two hundred (200) feet from an established place of business dealing in such merchandise, with the sole exception of newspapers and periodicals; and any violation of the terms and conditions of this Section, shall be punishable as provided in Section 11 of this Chapter."

This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its adoption and publication as prescribed by law.

Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk this 6th day of June, 1973

LOUIS F. DE CICCO
City Clerk

The foregoing Legislation, having been passed by the Common Council and not approved or disapproved by the Mayor within 5 days of the Common Council passage, Sunday excepted, such ordinance under Title IV, Sec. C-27 of the Code of the City of Kingston, New York, is in full force and effect.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION
Power Authority of the) Project
State of New York) No. 2729

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR LICENSE FOR UNCONSTRUCTED PROJECT
(June 7, 1973)

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application for a major license under the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 791a-825r) was filed on March 30, 1973, by the Power Authority of the State of New York (Correspondence to: Mr. Asa George, General Manager and Chief Engineer, Power Authority of the State of New York, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, New York 10019; copies to: Mr. John C. Mason, Esquire, Morgan, Lewis & Bockius, 1140 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036) for the proposed Breakabeen pumped storage Project No. 2729. The project would be located on Schoharie Creek, tributary of the Mohawk River, in Schoharie County, New York, near the Towns of Blenheim, Fulton, and Gilboa. The proposed project would affect the interests of interstate or foreign commerce.

Applicant, a municipality within the meaning of Section 3(7) of the Federal Power Act, proposes to construct and operate hydroelectric facilities comprising a pumped storage development having a capacity of one million kilowatts. Applicant states that the power developed at the project would be used for public utility purposes to meet projected power needs within New York State, with approximately 300 megawatts of project capacity expected to be utilized by the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

The proposed pumped storage project would consist of: (1) an upper reservoir enclosed on three sides by a 105 foot high and 9,800 foot long earth and rock-fill embankment and on the fourth side by a natural ridge, with a water surface area of 216 acres and storage capacity of 13,000 acre-feet, of which 11,900 acre-feet would be usable storage between elevation 1,920 and 1,985 feet; (2) an ungated submerged circular weir which would operate as a water inlet and outlet, located in the southeast portion of the upper reservoir; (3) a concrete-lined vertical 1,000 foot long pressure shaft, a 6,150 foot long horizontal tunnel and manifold, all 28.5 feet in diameter, and four 500 foot long, 13-foot diameter pressure tunnels to provide passageway for water between the pumping-generating units and the upper reservoir; (4) a lower reservoir created by a 75 foot high and 2,800 foot long earth and rock-fill dam across Schoharie Creek with a concrete-lined side chute spillway containing four 42.5 foot wide by 40 foot high tainter gates, having a storage capacity of 3,300 acre-feet (11,900 acre-feet of usable storage between elevations 766 and 780 feet) with 1,020 acres of surface area; (5) an underground powerhouse located on the west side of the lower reservoir which would contain four generator-motor units rated at 250,000 kilowatts when operated as generators and about 420,000 horsepower when operated as motors; (6) step-up transformers located in the plant and connected through a system of disconnects and gas insulated high voltage busses to underground cables extending to the switchyard; (7) a switchyard located on the east bank of Schoharie Creek immediately downstream from the dam; and (8) three 345-kv transmission lines which would share a common right-of-way extending 4.4 miles in a southeasterly direction from the switchyard to a juncture with the existing Gilboa-New Scotland transmission line and thereafter utilizing existing or proposed rights-of-way for transmission lines of Applicant's Blenheim-Gilboa Pumped Storage Project No. 2685.

Recreation areas and facilities, including a boat ramp, constant level pools, fishing areas, hiking trails, fishing and ice skating pond, and related facilities for use by the public are proposed for construction with funds to be provided in part by Applicant and in part by agencies of the United States.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make protest with reference to said application should on or before August 15, 1973, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, petitions to intervene or protests in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to a proceeding. Persons wishing to become parties to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file petitions to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules. The application is on file with the Commission and available for public inspection.

NO ONE IS BORN A GREAT SALESMAN

It takes hard work, a good product line and a company that believes training and supporting their field sales force is the most important part of the business.

We know! Every year ABCO adds more great salesmen to the field. Some started with no sales experience at all. We like to think our "family" approach to running a sales organization is part of the answer. We take a personal interest in the success of every person. You start with a comfortable draw . . . up to $300 per week . . . and an extra high commission schedule. Your training, both classroom and field, never stops. Does it work? Our successful salesmen earn $15,000 to $25,000 their first year! Every industrial plant, institution and municipality is a potential account. We need every qualified person we can find to double our sales force this year. If you are a persuasive self-starter, we'd like to talk with you.

Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your mind should now be preoccupied with the various odds and ends connected with the duties facing you. Make sure you do not get involved in any discussion of a romantic or emotional nature, or you will become very confused and unable to accomplish work that could be well done otherwise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy at tasks at hand and stop worrying, then you get rid of your problems easily. Plan some time for improving your health, void the social in p.m. and get a good rest.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan time for a new hairdo, fitting, or whatever else can make you look more charming, feel more sure of yourself. Getting out for recreation is fine, but don't go beyond your budget. Show you have imagination.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to please kin today and get rid of whatever it is that makes discord with them. Fine p.m. for entertaining, but make sure arrangements are just right. Don't be too extravagant. Dress well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) More care in driving is wise today, or trouble could develop. Handle practical affairs in a wise way, and be sure to doublecheck for errors. Don't waste time with gossips.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Building up your holdings is most wise at this time, since the planets are favorable. Don't be secretive with a business expert. Use your good judgment and forget your intuitive perceptions, which are apt to be wrong right now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Once your important work is done, be sure to do something constructive about your health and appearance. Show you are a perfectionist where social matters are concerned. Think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you are careful about little things, you find more affection and romance can be yours. See to it that your home is immaculate. Plan time to be of assistance to a good friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget working so hard and do something to deepen present friendships. Make better plans to gain your personal aims. Avoid some situation that could get you into trouble, however.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day for doing well watever work requries exactness and neatness. Show bigwig that you support his ideas. Loyalty can bring you the backing you want and need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to be with delightful persons at charming places and to understand better how to improve the future. A talk with a philosophically minded person helps you gain your ambitions more easily. Avoid one who gossips too much.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan how to get along better with creditors and debtors. Use your intuition and know how to have more understanding with mate. Stop being so self-sacrificing, if that is your trouble. Think.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Conversing with close ties and associates can bring about more understanding and better ideas for the future. Don't put up with one who nags. Quietly absent yourself. Take it easy tonight and be happy with mate.

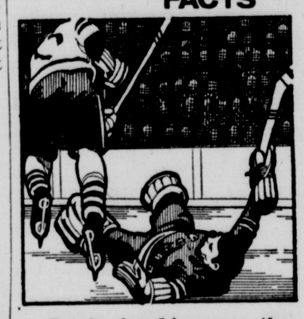

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY. . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who early in life will require more rest than most others since the nature is sensitive and cannot take too much noise, etc., around. Teach early to complete whatever has once been commenced, then this can become a successful chart in whatever the forte may be. Teach to reach decisions more readily, also. The lighter sports are good here and religion is a must and a joy to your offspring.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Czechoslovakia won the world amateur hockey championship held at Prague, Apr. 20, 1972, capturing the title from the Soviet Union, which had remained undefeated since 1962, The World Almanac notes. In the U.S., Boston University won the 1972 Collegiate Hockey Championship by defeating Cornell University, 4-0, at Boston Gardens on March 18.

WHY WE SAY

COUNT: In most banks a teller never tells because that is not how he got his name. Teller comes from the original meaning of the word tell which was to count. Untold wealth is uncounted wealth and when you say, "there were four of us all told" you mean all counted. So a teller counts.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FEUD: (Q.) Beth and I used to be best friends. Now we are enemies. She says I lie all the time. That is a lie. I do not lie. She told some friends of mine that they should never believe a word I said.

I felt like beating her up, but I didn't say anything. I don't really know what to do about it — let it go by or tell her where to go. She's taken over most of my friends and she's starting to take over my boy friend.

The reason I say that is because my boy friend and her boy friend were very close friends, but now are not speaking because of us. Beth and I don't speak either. What would you do? — Not True in New York.

(A.) Beth would no doubt misunderstand anything you said to her now. And you would no doubt be sorry you said it. So say nothing.

Instead, go ahead living your life the best way you know how. Be as happy as you know how. Do not think of Beth as an enemy. Do not talk about her unless you can find something good to say about her.

Your real friends will not desert you if what someone says about you is a lie and your life PROVES it to be one.

* * *

MALE NEEDED: (Q.) I am 16 and a junior in high school and we are having our junior prom. I have no boy friend who can take me. My mother wants me to go. So do I, but I tell her that I do not want to go because I have no boy friend. She mentioned that I should ask a cousin of mine to take me. I do not want to ask him. Please help me. I want to go to the prom very badly. — In Trouble in Tennessee.

(A.) Your letter came so late that it could not be printed before prom time. But I know there are many girls who are already asking themselves what boys or men they can find to take them to proms in the forthcoming school year.

Here is a list of males a girl can ask to take her to a prom: (1.) Her regular boy friend. (2.) Any boy she has dated. (3.) Any boy she is friendly with and with whom she has talked a few times. (4.) A boy who is a friend of her family and whom, of course, she knows personally. (5.) A friend who lives in another town, if the distance is not too great. (6.) A cousin. (7.) A bachelor uncle. (8.) Her brother. (9.) Her father

If you are a girl and have a prom coming up during the next school year, keep this list in mind. Even better, clip it out and save it.

* * *

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001)

Nostalgia Tonight on ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — Try recalling what songs and dances were the biggies for teenagers in 1957. If you're like me, you'll draw a complete blank, even though it was the historic year the nation first saw "American Bandstand" on the ABC Television network.

ABC will jog our memory tonight at 11:30 p.m. EDT with a 90-minute nostalgic epic called "The American Bandstand 20th Anniversary Special," starring Dick Clark.

It actually should be called the 21st anniversary special, because "American Bandstand" started in Philadelphia in 1952. It took Philadelphia by storm, which accounts for the missing year.

1956: a year later he became known to millions as the clean-cut, somewhat bland young man who presided over a program whose popularity befuddled adults and made instant stars out of unknowns.

At 43, Clark hasn't changed much in appearance from the good old days. The main differences are that he wears his hair a bit longer, is considerably wealthier and is a busy producer as well as a performer.

Since late March, he's been commuting from Los Angeles to New York to host "The $10,000 Pyramid" on CBS. He tapes five or more shows in two days, then returns to Los Angeles to do "American Bandstand," put together rock concerts and produce TV specials.

Why all this work? He paused long enough for a quick lunch and explanation when he was in town taping his CBS game show.

"I bear the burden a lot of people have — of having to do a lot of things," he said with a grin. "Some people are contented to do one thing, work nine to five and then relax. I just have to be busy. I like being busy."

Why did he get in the broadcasting business?

"I was very, very lucky," said Clark, a native of Mount Vernon, N.Y. "When I was 13-14 years old, I saw Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore doing a radio show together.

"I have a vague recollection of sitting in the audience and saying, 'wouldn't that be an interesting way to make a livfreak and that's what got me started."

His first radio job was on a small FM station in Utica, N.Y. He told listeners what the weather was going to be like each day.

After all these years of doing "American Bandstand," does he still recall who were his guests the first day the show went on ABC?

"Sure," Clark laughed. "The Billy Williams quartet, Jonie James and the Corvettes."

The Corvettes? I asked my brother and he didn't know, either.

Opening lead—♠ 10

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Fred Karpin has been collecting bridge hands for the last 40 years. Every so often he produces a book that shows how and why these hands were played.

Today's hand as played by Sam Stayman is taken from his latest book, "The Art of Card Reading at Bridge."

Sam opened one no-trump. His partner looked at his 21 high card points; wasted no time with the Stayman convention and just bid seven.

Sam looked over dummy and saw that he had 12 top tricks and two places to get the 13th. The contract was a very good one, but careless play would have left him one trick short.

Sam wasn't careless. He started by cashing three spades and discarding a club from dummy. East dropped the deuce of diamonds on the third spade.

Then Sam tackled hearts only to have East show out on the third lead of that suit also.

The next two tricks were taken by dummy's queen and jack of diamonds and everyone followed.

Now Sam stopped to count. West had started with six spades, four hearts and at least two diamonds. He couldn't have more than one club.

Sam cashed dummy's ace of clubs; led the 10 of clubs to take the sure-thing finesse against East's jack; cashed his queen of clubs; entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and made his grand slam.

Skylab Crew in Final Space Walk

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab's astronauts began a final walk in space today to retrieve 30,242 matchless pictures of the sun and make two more repairs to leave the space station in top shape for another crew next month.

Veteran Charles "Pete" Conrad and Paul J. Weitz, making his first spacewalk, planned to spend up to three hours working outside the big, 270-mile high research lab.

Unlike the emergency repair operation June 7, today's spacewalk was normal except for the minor fix-it jobs added to the pilots' routine.

Joseph P. Kerwin, who helped Conrad fix the ship's solar power wing during a spacewalk 12 days ago, remained inside this time to monitor systems.

Conrad's first job was to tap a faulty battery charger by hitting it with a one pound hammer to see if he could free a stuck electrical switch. Then he was to remove six film cassettes from Skylab's solar telescopes, brush a speck of dust off one instrument and tape a piece of sunshade outside to see how sunlight affects it.

The photographs from Skylab's solar observatory, mounted piggyback on one side of the 100-ton space station, contained the first pictures of the development of a solar flare and thousands of other unparalleled images of the sun as seen in different forms of radiation.

The astronauts were in their 26th day of flight with only two more to go before returning to a Pacific splashdown at 9:48 a.m. Friday 853 miles southwest of San Diego.

They passed Russia's two-year-old space endurance record Monday and should end the flight with a 28-day, 48-minute mark. That record should not last long, however, because Skylab 2 astronauts Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma plan to spend 56 days up there starting July 27.

Except for one more medical test Wednesday, the Skylab 1 crewmen have completed their research tasks. Mission scientist Robert Parker said "it's been an exceeding successful mission from an experiment point of view."

The faulty battery charger that controllers asked Conrad to try to fix was one of 18 designed to feed electricity from four windmill-shaped solar panels for Skylab. The charger and another had failed and ground tests indicated that the shock from a hammer might jar a stuck relay so Skylab would get an extra 240 watts.

The station, however, already had 7,000 watts and did not need the extra power. Engineers nevertheless said they wanted the regulator working if possible as insurance against trouble later in the mission.

$10.3 Billion Budget in New York City

NEW YORK (AP) The City Council and Board of Estimate were set to formally approve today a $10.3 billion city expense budget.

The budget, which surpasses the expenditures of any state government in the nation, was informally agreed on Monday by the board, City Council leaders and Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The budget involves a 36-cent increase in real estate taxes on each $100 of assessed valuation—41 cents less than had been proposed by the mayor.

Allocated in the 1973-74 spending program are funds to hire 3,000 additional policemen and to continue reduced transit fares for the elderly and school children.

These additions, along with the reduced real estate hike, had been sought by City Comptroller Abraham D. Beame, who is running for the Democratic nomination for mayor.

The tax increase means that the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 will pay $688 in taxes next year, compared with $652 in the current fiscal year.

Lindsay had projected a record 74-cent tax increase on each $100 of assessed valuation. This was later revised up to 77 cents, the 41-cent rate cut came at Beame's insistence and with strong approval from leaders of the real estate industry.

The mayor, attending a meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors in San Francisco, was represented at Monday's meeting by Deputy Mayor Edward K. Hamilton and Budget Director David A. Grossman.

"The mayor gave full authority to myself and Hamilton to bind him," said Grossman. He said there would be no veto of changes made in Linday's original proposed $10.6 billion budget.

The 3,000 additional policemen, to be hired at a cost of $16 million, add to 3,150 extra policemen provided for in Lindsay's initial budget.

The budget also allocates $1.8 million for 325 more transit policemen; $1.2 million for 175 additional housing police; $2 million for a new block-security anti-crime program, and a total of $16.75 million to continue reduced fares for school children and the elderly.

Irish Army Changing Tactics

BELFAST (UPI) — The Irish Republican Army, retaliating for the weekend deaths of two Roman Catholics, announced a major policy change Monday—it will no longer issue warnings prior to bomb attacks.

IRA tactics in the past usually included telephoned alerts before bombings were carried out at public gathering places such as pubs and department stores.

But a statement issued in Belfast by the militant Provisional wing of the IRA said it would strike in the future without warning. The statement said the new IRA policy was based on the activities of a new Protestant extremist group, the Ulster Freedom Fighters (UFF), which claimed responsibility for the weekend deaths of two Roman Catholics.

"In view of the activities of the Ulster Freedom Fighters, the Provisional IRA will no longer give warnings of its explosions," the statement said.

The deaths of the two—Daniel Rouse, 17, and James Kelly, 25—raised to 827 the number of dead in nearly four years of Northern Ireland violence among Roman Catholics, Protestants and security forces.

Disclosure of the IRA policy change came as police appealed to the public for help in smashing the UFF, which threatened more violence after claiming responsibility for the two killings. British intelligence sources said army agents were trying to infiltrate the group and capture its estimated 20 members.

The UFF said it killed Rouse and Kelly and an as yet undiscovered third man as vengeance for Friday's death of Michael Wilson, brother-in-law of Protestant extremist Tommy Herron —former vice-chairman of the Ulster Defense Assocation (UDA).

Herron accused the IRA of Wilson's killing but the IRA denied any connection.

Police Monday asked anyone with information on the killings or the UFF to call police departments on the "confidental telephones" — to which callers can dictate anonymously to recording machines.

Brazil Elects Retired General

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — The military leadership Monday chose Ernesto Geisel, a retired four-star general and head of the government oil monopoly, as the next president of Brazil—where elections have been forbidden since 1964.

Geisel, 64, will take over as leader of Latin America's largest nation from Emilio Garrastazu Medici, who has headed the military government since 1969. Medici's four-year term expires in 1974 and he is scheduled to step down March 15.

There has not been a presidential election in Brazil since the military toppled the civilian government of Joao Goulart in a 1964 revolution.

The formal election of Geisel will take place in an electoral college, but this is little more than a formality since the ruling party controls a vast majority of the votes.

Geisel will be the fourth president to take office since the revolution. Since then, Brazil has achieved one of the highest economic growth rates in the world and slowed its previously skyrocketing rate of inflation.

Medici met with his cabinet and members of the pro-government party Monday before announcing that Geisel had been selected for the job.

Medici called Geisel "the candidate who . . . can guarantee that the nation will continue, in a climate of social and political tranquility, to work toward progress, well being and happiness."

Geisel retired from the military in 1969 after 44 years of service and became president of Petrobras, the nation's oil monoply. Under Brazilian law, he must resign the post by July 15 to be eligible for the presidency.

Geisel is considered stern and tactiturn, but an able administrator. His brother is the war minister.

As leader of Petrobras, Geisel presided over an active expansion of the company in both the fields of marketing and exploration.

County GOP Sets Session

KINGSTON — Ulster County Republican Committee will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 at the Walnut Grove for its reorganizational meeting at which it is expected that Chairman Albert Spada and the balance of the present slate will be reelected.

It is also expected that former Supervisor and County Legislator Charles Penney of Shawangunk will be named as new vice chairman to fill a vacancy created by the resignation last year of Ben J. Slutsky of Ellenville.

The balance of the slate to be elected includes: Edwin Callahan, vice chairman; Mrs. Sally Brinnier, vice chairman; Clarence Anderson, secretary and William Collins, treasurer.
